NEW GP CENTRE ABOUT TO OPEN

A 6,000-PATIENT medical centre – formed through the merger of two doctors' surgeries – will be opened in Cannock next month.

Government minister Patrick McLoughlin is expected to attend the launch. The Bideford Way Surgery and Newhall Surgery, with a total of four GPs, will combine their services.

By Marion Brennan

A ceremony will be held at the £12 million new health park in Wolverhampton Road on February 13 to name various parts of the site.

Staffordshire County Council, which has contributed £2m to the project, say Transport Secretary Mr McLoughlin, a former Cannock councillor, has been invited to officiate.

Staff at the new surgery, to be known as Alderwood Medical Practice, are hoping to open for business on Monday, February 16.

Transfer

Patients at Newhall Surgery will benefit from longer opening hours, which will be 8am to 6.30pm Monday to Friday.

Gill Harper-Potts, practice manager at Bideford Way Surgery, said there would be no break in service during the transition.

"The opening date is not definite but regardless of when it will be, we expect the transfer to be seamless. Whichever day we close, we will open the next working day."

She said the premises provided the opportunity to offer new facilities and they were looking at possibly including a baby clinic in the future.

The health park features 63 apartments for older people with extra-care needs, called Chasewood, which is already oversubscribed. A new pharmacy, cafe and community hub, to be called the Longford Centre, are also part of the complex at the former Langbourn House care home.

Cannock Chase Council leader George Adamson said the scheme would provide much-needed accommodation. He said: "While it's a struggle to fill these schemes in some parts of the county, people are queuing up to live in them in Cannock."

Hillcroft House, a redundant building which used to be part of the old Chase Hospital, was demolished to make way for the accommodation.

A nine-bedroom respite centre, called Woodland View Short Breaks, for people with learning disabilities, will also form part of the facilities.

County Councillor Alan White, cabinet member for health, said: "Extra care developments like Chasewood can be liberating for those who want to live as normal a life as possible but want 24/7 care and support in the background. We have a number of extra care developments throughout Staffordshire, with 15 currently in operation."

Pet rescued from 40ft quarry ledge

Emergency workers with border collie Leah after she was rescued from a ledge above a 40ft drop

A DOG was rescued from a ledge above a 40ft drop after bounding over a cliff during a walk with its owners on Cannock Chase.

A firefighter was lowered down a steep face at Brocton Quarry to recover the animal from its perch.

The border collie, called Leah, fell 15ft onto the ledge and was brought back to the surface by specialists at Stafford fire station, which has the only rope rescue crew in the county.

The drama happened on Saturday lunchtime. Firefighter Matt Wade descended the quarry in a safety harness and protective gear in case the dog tried to bite him. But he was able to pick up the animal without injury and bring her back to the top.

Watch manager Roger Prenter-Jones said: "Fortunately the dog was calm, barking occasionally, but allowed herself to be picked up.

"The owners sensibly made no attempt to rescue her before calling the fire service. This would be the response of most people, although we all know that pets are treated as family members, and I would like to emphasise that when walking dogs around areas such as quarries, mud or ice that owners ensure that dogs are kept under control. If pets do become stuck or trapped in that kind of situation the owner should remain calm and call for assistance. Year after year, there are numerous fatalities caused by owners trying to rescue their pet."

Two-and-a-half-year-old Leah suffered no injuries and was unfazed by her ordeal.

Her owners were walking their two dogs when she disappeared over the edge of the quarry near Freda's Grave, a memorial to the Great Dane mascot of the New Zealand Rifle Brigade who were stationed at Cannock Chase during the First World War.

Jobs fear as Money Shop faces closures

A PAYDAY lending business with shops across Staffordshire is facing having to close up to 200 branches after new regulations hit its operation.

Around 350 redundancies are expected at The Money Shop and the company, a subsidiary of US firm Dollar Financial, has begun consultation over the process which would also see its online and retail businesses consolidated.

The Money Shop, which has more than 500 shops across the UK, may also close one of its three UK head offices, with its Bromley operation most likely to be shut.

The company has grown rapidly since first opening 168 stores in 2006 and currently has about 3,000 staff.

It has two sites in Wolverhampton and others at Bilston, Bloxwich, Cannock, Dudley, Halesowen, Kidderminster, Merry Hill, Stafford, Stourbridge, Walsall, Wednesbury and West Bromwich.

The tighter regulation has hit profits across the payday lending sector.

The Financial Conduct Authority introduced a cap on the costs of loans made by payday lenders. Rates are now capped at 0.8 per cent per day of the amount borrowed.

Health boss is to retire

THE chairman of Cannock Chase Clinical Commissioning Group has announced he is to retire.

Dr Johnny McMahon made the announcement at the CCG first governing body meeting of the year on Thursday. He will retire from general practice at Newhall Street Surgery in May and will step down from chairman of the CCG.

With more than 24 years of clinical experience, he has sat on the Cannock board since 2012 and became chair in April 2013.

Claimants total falls by 49pc in a year

LATEST statistics published indicate that levels of unemployment have fallen rapidly in the Cannock Chase district over the last 12 months.

The figures show that in November 2014, 787 people were claiming Job Seekers Allowance (JSA) compared to 1548 in January 2014 – a drop of 49 per cent.

Unemployment in the district is now at an all-time low with 1.2 per cent of the population aged 16 to 64 claiming JSA.

This compares to a peak rate of 5.4 per cent (3,425) during the last recession in April 2009.

Youth unemployment figures have also fallen with 205 claiming in November 2014 compared to 430 in January 2014 – a 52 per cent decrease.

Councillor Gordon Alcott, portfolio leader for economic development and planning at Cannock Chase Council, said "The figures are great news, they suggest that economy in the area is heading in the right direction. Businesses are taking on more staff, including many young people through apprenticeship schemes and training opportunities.

The previous lowest unemployment rate achieved was in October and November 2003 when the rate was 1.3 per cent.

Cars and lorry in A5 smash

THREE cars and a lorry were involved in a rush-hour crash in Staffordshire.

Police closed the A5 near the Gailey Island for an hour while the vehicles were recovered.

One person was taken to New Cross Hospital in Wolverhampton but their injuries were not serious.

The crash involving a Citroën Dispatch, Vauxhall Corsa, Volkswagen Passat and HGV heading towards Wheaton Aston happened at 8.30am on Monday.

City Link workers apply for APC jobs

HUNDREDS of former City Link workers applied for 100 jobs created at APC Overnight.

The Cannock firm held a recruitment day on Tuesday last week.

Emma Scott, head of HR at APC Overnight, said: "We have brought our recruitment plans forward as we traditionally recruit at Easter.

"However, we recognise that there is a big group of talented people looking for work and we can hire people who know the role and require less training. Former City Link employers have been given priority."

The 100 jobs available include warehouse work, parcel sorting and forklift driving and both 24 and 30-hour contracts are available. More than 60 people registered in advance for the recruitment day, with many more applying for jobs on the day.

APC Overnight has been at the site on Kingswood Lakeside for 18 months.

Ramesh Parkash, 49, from Sutton Coldfield worked as a warehouse operative for City Link and found out on Boxing Day from watching the news that he had lost his job.

He said: "When I went into work on December 29, the whole site was closed. I was very shocked and started applying for jobs straight away."

Cemetery on border to change its name

A CEMETERY on the border of Staffordshire and Walsall that opened more than a year ago is to change its name after numerous people complained.

Walsall Burial Park opened in November 2013 but since then people have contacted the owners to say they do not like the name as the site does not actually sit in Walsall. Instead it lies in Burntwood.

Bosses at private firm Springhill Cemetery asked for suggestions on social media and the name Chase & District Memorial Park was chosen. The signs at the site will change in the next few weeks.

General manager Kamran Saleem said today: "We kept getting messages from people and comments.

"People were asking why it was called Walsall Burial Park. From our point of view the site's name is irrelevant but it has been a touchy subject for a lot of people.

Preferred

"We put it out to public vote and asked them what they wanted it to be called. We have been staggered by the response. We had about 300 people voting.

"The name has officially changed but we need to change the signs and the website. We've changed it on all the paperwork."

Mr Saleem said Burntwood Burial Park was another name option but people preferred it to be called Chase & District Memorial Park.

Thousands of plots were purchased months in advance before the £1.4 million burial park opened. It was created in response to growing pressure for burial sites across the region.

The site off the A5195 serves Walsall, Cannock and Lichfield. The eight-acre site includes more than 1,000 plots for cremated remains and 5,000 burial plots.

Venue ready to hold huge Burns party

A POPULAR Cannock venue is set to host what it describes as 'the biggest Scottish party in the Midlands' to celebrate the birthday of national poet Robert Burns.

The Premier Suite, based above Bar Sport, in High Green, is hosting a weekend of Scottish celebrations on January 24 and 25 to celebrate Scotland's favourite son.

The celebrations start on the Saturday with the annual Midlands Biggest Burns Night Scottish Party.

The line-up of entertainment on Saturday evening includes live Scottish band Splash, a Rod Stewart tribute act, highland dancers and bagpipers from Stirling.

The evening will include a Scottish themed meal. Tickets for Saturday's party night are £24.50 each. The event starts at 7.30pm.

The celebrations continue on the Sunday with a Scottish themed family Sunday lunch. The event runs from midday to 5pm.

Scott Murray, owner of The Premier Suite, said: ""This is our seventh Burns Weekend and it is always a great weekend. I believe it is the biggest in the Midlands."

Work starts to stop flooding

Work is being carried out at Sankeys Corner in Burntwood to stop flooding problems

WORK to improve drains outside a row of shops prone to flooding has now started.

Workmen are pulling up paving slabs at Sankey's Corner in Burntwood to get to the drains which will be replaced.

There is a long-standing problem of flooding outside the shops in the town. When it rains, water collects on the paving slabs and in the winter, when it is wet, it freezes over, posing a danger to pedestrians, according to local councillors.

Councillor Sue Woodward said she was delighted that the project had started. "The drainage improvements couldn't be more timely, with much of the winter weather still ahead of us and I hope by spring, the other planned improvements such as new benches will be in place too.

"There's still much to do to improve the town's shopping facilities, but this is a good step in a positive direction."

The project, costing £25,000, is being carried out on the pedestrian area at the corner of Cannock Road and Water Street.

Hundreds reply over children's centres

HUNDREDS of people responded to a consultation into plans to close children's centres under a shake-up of provision for under-fives in Staffordshire.

The county council's eight-week exercise attracted more than 1,600 replies from centre users and the public.

A total of 44 existing centres across the region would close under the Best Start proposals, with 10 dedicated bases kept by the authority.

Council bosses say only a quarter of families are benefitting from the current early years service and at present just over half of youngsters are considered at a good stage of development in their first school year.

The changes could instead see pre-school youngsters catered for in community centres, villages or even at home. The county council has insisted it is not a cost-cutting led approach.

Councillor Mike Lawrence, cabinet member for children's services, said the current approach was not working and that money was being wasted on under-used buildings.

The results of the survey are due to be discussed by the safer communities select committee on Monday.

50 object to rehab plans

PLANS to open a bedsit for recovering drug addicts in Cannock town centre has prompted around 50 letters of objection.

Under the proposed scheme, 91-93 High Green would be turned into a 12-bedroom supported house for adults in recovery.

The ex-addicts would also run the tea room next door, formally Bistro 95.

Burton Addiction Centre submitted the plans to Cannock Chase District Council last month and the planning committee has since received approximately 50 letters of objection.

Burglars foiled

TWO masked raiders fled empty handed after breaking into a post office. Two men wearing balaclavas and gloves broke into the back of Trent Valley post office in Lichfield at 2.30am on Wednesday last week. However, they tripped the alarm and escaped with nothing.

Talks plea as milk payments delayed

FARMING bosses have demanded urgent talks with dairy co-operative First Milk after it deferred payments to suppliers by two weeks due to a financial crisis.

The company takes its milk from more than 1,000 suppliers, including many in Staffordshire, who will be left to face cash flow problems after the previously-scheduled payment date passed on Monday.

The price of milk has fallen by 50 per cent in a year. While the money from First Milk will arrive with farmers in two weeks' time, farming groups have hit out at the move.

The Staffordshire chairman of the National Farmers' Union, Alan Warrington, who farms at Aspley House Farm, near Eccleshall, hopes to meet Stone MP Bill Cash to outline his members' concerns.

Mr Warrington, a former supplier to First Milk, said:"Any delay in payments is bound to cause problems."

Mr Warrington urged Staffordshire farmers with concerns to contact the NFU helpline.

First Milk said the move would put its finances and the business on a stronger platform.

Trade figures are welcomed

A BUSINESS leader in Staffordshire has welcomed the latest trade and manufacturing figures which were higher than analysts expected.

Chris Plant, director of Chase Chamber of Commerce, said the November figures published by the Office for National Statistics supported the more positive assessment of the UK economy conveyed in the British Chambers of Commerce's quarterly survey.

He said: "The improvement in the trade deficit for the second month in a row is particularly welcome."

Meeting change

THE date of Lichfield Civic Society's next meeting has been changed to January 22. Guest speaker will be town clerk Peter Young who will give a presentation on the role and activities of the city council. The meeting is at 7.45pm at St Mary's Centre, in Market Square.

Hauliers back move to keep cyclists safe

A CAMPAIGN to keep cyclists safe on roads in Staffordshire is being backed by haulage companies across the county.

Staffordshire Safer Roads Partnership is distributing 10,000 fluorescent 'cyclists beware' stickers in a bid to keep cyclists safe when passing heavy goods vehicles.

The eye-catching stickers will be displayed on the rear of large vehicles which often have a large blind spot, to remind cyclists of the importance of being seen.

In 2013, 165 people were either killed or seriously injured on the county's roads. This figure was 221 in 2012 – a reduction of 56.

Staffordshire has seen a reduction of 25.3 per cent in the number of people killed or seriously injured on the county's roads over the last year, putting the county in the top two in the country for road safety but the campaign wants to continue to make the roads safer.

Steph Cooley, Community Safety Lead for Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service came up with the idea. She said: "Rising fuel costs and the higher profile now given to events such as the Tour de France, have resulted in an increase in the number of cyclists on our roads. We are eager to make our roads as safe as possible and we hope these stickers will act as a visual prompt that will make cyclists consider their positioning, particularly at the approach to junctions and roundabouts."

Sgt Rob Gilligan, of Staffordshire Police, said: "Staffordshire Police is very supportive of this new initiative." JCB has welcomed the initiative and has taken 500 stickers to display on its own fleet.

Joannes Van Osta, JCB's Group Transport General Manager, said: "We are delighted to support a scheme which reduces the risks to cyclists on the roads. The new stickers will be displayed on the rear of JCB's trucks and we will also actively encourage drivers of lorries owned by suppliers visiting our UK factories to also put a sticker on the back of their trucks too."

Anger at failed mail drop for injuries unit cutbacks

RESIDENTS in Cannock never received information advising them of the decision to cut the opening hours at Cannock's Minor Injuries Unit, it has been revealed.

Cannock Chase Clinical Commissioning Group planned to organise a mail drop to residents across the district informing them of the changes and advising them of the NHS Choose Well campaign.

The leaflets should have been distributed at the start of December when the reduction in hours came into force.

However, at the first governing body meeting of the year, held last Thursday, it was revealed that the distribution of leaflets directly to letterboxes never happened.

CCG chairman Dr Johnny McMahon told the meeting: "The Choose Well leaflets should have gone out in December but they did not.

"We were told that within two weeks of the change in hours everyone in Cannock Chase would get a mail drop and they haven't."

Council leader George Adamson described the delay as a 'disgrace'.

He said: "It is just typical of the CCG. We were promised the leaflets would go out in December, which was already after the date the reduction in hours started. This sums up Cannock Chase CCG. It is a disgrace and shows a complete disregard for the people of Cannock Chase. It is simply not good enough."

However, officials said information had been placed in as many public places as possible and a nationwide campaign had been launched to help people go to the right place for medical help.

The decision to reduce the opening hours was made at a meeting in November despite members of the public being against the move.

The cash-strapped group agreed to slash the hours and close the unit at night in a bid to save £750,000.

Meanwhile, Labour's Parliamentary Candidate for Cannock Chase has said the unit needs to re-instate longer opening hours to cope with the crisis at A&E departments.

Janos Toth has called on the Government to extend the hours of the unit back to full capacity in a bid to take the pressure of local hospitals.

He described the current situation as 'appalling' and said: "This is an appalling situation for residents."

Greek restaurant launches

A NEW Greek restaurant has opened at a Cannock complex. Georgio's has been unveiled at the former Taaj Indian Fine Dining restaurant at the Orbital Plaza in Bridgtown.

The building was put on the market with property advisers Christie & Co in June with a £25,000 price tag. The Orbital Plaza features a 13-storey hotel and offices.

The complex was put up for sale in February last year and was snapped up by Nine Hospitality in November.

Lisa Gregory, of Chase Trekking Centre, leads riders through the Chase

Trekking centre to extend at a gallop

THERE will be more opportunities for horsing around at a Staffordshire riding and pony trekking centre with a new-look visitor centre and 46 new stables on the way.

The boss of Chase Trekking Centre, Lisa Gregory, says she is looking forward to an exciting year after the attraction pulled in a record 17,000 visitors in the year up to last April.

Building work for the new development at the site, in Teddesley Coppice, Penkridge, will start this spring.

Under the scheme, which will create about new six jobs, a new riding school and stables will be built to accommodate more horses, as well as a new medical room.

Miss Gregory said: "We've been here for 19 years and we've achieved a lot, but now it's time to take a leap forward to expand and be able to offer lots more facilities.

"There will be a new visitor centre with a coffee shop and a training room, toilets and a new indoor horse riding arena and off course new stables for all our horses.

"We're looking forward to a really exciting year, we've been receiving good visitor numbers.

"Cannock Chase is an amazing place to go riding."

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

CHOP down laurels. Chop down apple tree. Chop down hydrangeas. Burn the lot in the brazier. Slash, hack, burn, burn, burn. Gardening. It's a man thing. But only in January.

A FEW days ago I wrote about the curious veil of silence which has descended on the Scottish bin-lorry tragedy. Six people were killed on December 22 when the lorry careered along the pavements of Glasgow. Yet all has gone very quiet. The city council says it will never identify the lorry driver or crew. Now, a senior Scottish lawyer says it could be years before the bereaved and injured are told what happened. He condemns Scotland's fatal-accident inquiry process as flawed and "bordering on inhumane." So far, no decision has even been taken on whether an inquiry will be held. You might imagine that Scots would be demanding answers to this appalling national tragedy. But the majority of comments I can find online insist the authorities know best and all will be sorted out eventually. I can only conclude that folk have more faith in their lords and masters north of the border than we have down here.

BACK in August I asked, in my cynical old way, whether William Pooley, the Ebola nurse, would feature in the New Year Honours List for risking his life to save the lives of others - "or does he have to sing pop songs, row a boat or ride a bike very fast as well?" In fact Pooley got nothing. Honours went to an actress who can impersonate Cilla Black, a fashion designer who invented the mini skirt 50 years ago, and to Joan Collins, presumably for being Joan Collins for all these years. Fine priorities, eh?

IN Wednesday's Thought for the Day (Radio 4) an Anglican bishop, Nick Baines, delivered a little homily, condemning protests in Germany against "the Islamisation of the West." He asked: "Why is it that in such matters, perception is so much more powerful than reality? Why is it that the fires of fear are so easy to stoke?" Five hours later Islamist gunmen burst into the offices of a satirical magazine and slaughtered a dozen Parisians. You were saying, Bishop . . .?

MY item on the 30th anniversary of the mobile phone reminds an ex-cop of the happy days when these huge, expensive cellphones were used mainly by the media and criminal gangs. They were also dead easy to intercept, using scanners. He recalls endless hours of listening in on thug-chat which suddenly produced the whispered gem: "Seven, tomorrow night, the post office."

MORE tales from BM (Before Mobiles). A reader, inspired by the 30th anniversary of the first mobile-phone call, remembers the era when a colleague carried a bag of mints and humbugs for the specific purpose of bribing receptionists to allow him to use their phone to call his head office. He remembers getting his first mobile phone as "blissful". And what about the bliss of being able to bribe a receptionist with a humbug? Those were the days.

WASTE not, want not. Full marks to SpaceX, the American company aiming to recycle damn great parts of its space rockets by dropping them many thousands of feet out of the heavens and "soft-landing" them on a sea barge on the Atlantic. Not sure I'd want to be the skipper on that boat.

SO how's Dry January coming along? Missing a nice glass of Merlot yet? Aching for a pint of ale? I spotted this headline yesterday on a feature about alternatives to alcohol: "Soft drinks so tasty you won't miss booze." Oh, yes you will. No pop yet invented can compare with Mother Nature's oldest comedy double-act, the Brothers Ferment and Distil.

Be wary plea as 200,000 fakes seized

PEOPLE are being reminded to remain vigilant about counterfeit goods sales following the seizure of 200,000 illicit items in Staffordshire over the last year.

The majority of goods seized in 2014 were illicit tobacco products, although others included counterfeit electrical goods, clothes and cosmetics.

Trading standards officers are warning that counterfeit goods will leave people out of pocket and could cause serious harm and that fake electrical goods are hazardous as they can cause fires and electrocution.

There are also harmful substances such as high lead levels in perfume.

They say proceeds often go into the pockets of organised criminal gangs. Staffordshire County Council's trading standards leader Gill Heath said: "We want people to avoid the pitfalls of counterfeit goods in 2015 – protecting themselves and legitimate businesses.

"Counterfeit goods are increasingly hard to detect just to look at, so when something is being sold at a knock-down price, people should be extremely wary. We always say that if something is too good to be true, it usually is.

"Anyone who buys counterfeit goods will land themselves with shoddy goods which may be dangerous and at the same time line criminals' pockets."

Anyone wanting to report counterfeit goods sales can call the anonymous Staffordshire Fight the Fakes line on 01785 330356.

Ofsted praises school after improvements

A SECONDARY school in Staffordshire has been praised by Ofsted – two years after being told to improve.

Inspectors rated all operations of Chase Terrace Technology College as 'good' as well as a separate judgement of 'good' for sixth form provision. It was described as a 'happy and caring school, where teaching and achievement are both good'.

By Tom Oakley

The education watchdog said the school prepares students well for their future success. Students of the Burntwood school are 'polite, courteous and respectful' and 'keen to learn, and work well together and on their own'.

The inspectors noted lessons were 'characterised by positive relationships between staff and students that create a good atmosphere that contributes well to learning'.

Above

And 'teachers use their good subject knowledge to plan lessons well. They explain ideas and tasks clearly, and offer a range of approaches to maintain students' interest'.

GCSE results also improved, with the figure of students securing five A* to C grades including English and Maths rising by eight per cent for each of the past two years – now well above the national average.

In stark contrast, the report in March 2013 stated that the school 'requires improvement' adding: 'Not all teachers in all subjects help students develop their reading, writing and communication skills'.

It noted that 'some learning lacks a sense of urgency, particularly where students spend time writing out the aims of the lesson before any learning activity begins."

The report also went on to say that the sixth form requires improvement because 'the progress of students is uneven in different subjects'.

The school's headteacher Dr Stuart Jones said he was delighted the school had turned around its fortunes and praised his team.

"This report is a validation of a great deal of hard work done by staff and governors over the past few years," he said.

"We have a fantastic group of young people at Chase Terrace and a very supportive parent body and wider community."

Lights raise £1,400

FESTIVE illuminations at a house in Cannock raised more than £1,400 for charity.

It takes almost two weeks to decorate Paul Carpenter's home in Squirrel Close, Huntington, and features a Santa, reindeer and thousands of twinkling lights.

The father of three has been decorating his home in the run-up to Christmas for the past 14 years and in that time has managed to raise around £30,000 for various charities.

Over the festive period, a box was left outside for donations as people visited to see the lights. A total of £1,429.64 was raised for the Midlands Air Ambulance.

Diamond couple celebrate

Happiness – Arnold and Cicely Garbett look back over 60 years of marriage

THEIR love affair began at a dance in Cannock – now, more than 60 years later, Arnold and Cicely Garbett are celebrating their diamond anniversary.

Before the dance, the couple had never met before, but it was love at first sight for Mr Garbett from the moment he caught his future wife's eye. The 86-year-old said: "I was from Hednesford and she was from Cannock; I went down there with a mate of mine.

"I looked across the ballroom and the moment I saw Cicely I said 'I'm going to marry that girl'."

Mr and Mrs Garbett, who live in Pye Green Road, tied the knot on New Year's Day, 1955 at St Luke's Church, Cannock. They honeymooned in London.

The couple went on to have two children, Stephen, 53, and Helen, 57. Mrs Garbett, 83, worked in a shop before moving on to British Rail as an accountant. Her husband was a carpenter until moving on to work for manufacturing company Schrader in Bridgtown.

Repairing potholes 'will help economy'

SPENDING government cash on fixing potholes and other road damage in the West Midlands will help attract business to the region, according to Transport Secretary Patrick McLoughlin.

Mr McLoughlin said the cash boost showed the Government was planning for the country's economic future. A total of £512 million will be spent on road maintenance – including repairing potholes – across the West Midlands.

Some £104m has been allocated to fund repairs in Staffordshire while Wolverhampton is getting £11.7m, Walsall £12.6m, Sandwell £16.8m and Dudley £15.8m.

Mr McLoughlin, a former Cannock miner, said: "Having a strong transport network is important when it comes to attracting business and investment.

"We had two winters where a lot of damage was done to the roads and that can't all be sorted overnight.

"I am very pleased I have been able to secure this money from the Chancellor to improve and repair our highways. It shows that at a time where the economic situation is a difficult one, the Government is willing to prioritise road repairs and plan for the country's economic future," he said.

Lifeguard skills course

A LEISURE centre in Staffordshire is hosting a lifeguard qualification course next month.

Penkridge Leisure Centre is putting on a Royal Life Saving Society UK National Pool Lifeguard Qualification course from February 16 to 20.

Candidates are expected to be able to swim continuously on the front and back for a length of 100m and tread water in the deepest part of the pool for 30 seconds among other requirements.

For more details call the centre on 01785 714152.

Alert on raids

A SPATE of break-ins in Penkridge has prompted police to warn homeowners to be extra vigilant.

Six homes were burgled, two cars broken into and bikes stolen in Teddesley Road, Templars Way, Cherrybrook Estate and St Modwena Way Estate.

Scheme gives hope to 4,000 families

THE lives of almost 4,000 troubled families in the Black Country and Staffordshire have been turned around, new figures show.

A government programme introduced in 2012 identified tens of thousands of families across the country which needed help.

Of 4,850 in the Black Country and Staffordshire defined as 'troubled', 3,914 have received help. Staffordshire has the most 'turned around' families with 1,179 of its 1,390.

Walsall has done the same with all but 16 of its 795 families, while Wolverhampton has turned around 617 of 810.

Troubled families could have youngsters causing anti-social behaviour, or who truant regularly, or who have an adult on out-of-work benefits. And the programme helps get children back into school, adults into work and turns people away from crime.

Communities Secretary Eric Pickles hailed the 'amazing programme' and said the changes would mean more economic stability for economies across the country. In total 85,303 families have benefitted – 99 per cent of those identified two and a half years ago.

Free swims for children

PARENTS and toddlers are being offered a free swimming session in Cannock to get more children to splashing about more often.

Parents can attend the centre on East Cannock Road, between 11.30-12.30pm or 3.30- 6pm.

Jodie Wilkes, Fitness Manager at the health centre said: "Swimming is a vital life skill that we actively encourage from birth. We look forward to welcoming local parents and their little ones into the pool for the day."

Call Nuffield Health on 0845 564 3789.

Delays ahead

TEMPORAR traffic signals will be in place in Station Road, Hednesford, from 10pm tomorrow. Drivers can expect delays all weekend while repairs are carried out on the railway bridge by Network Rail. The work is expected to be completed by 6am on Monday.

Tributes to award-winning photographer

TRIBUTES have been paid to an award-winning photographer who captured life in Staffordshire for more than 36 years.

Allan Williamson, who worked as a freelance photographer for the Express & Star in the late 2000s after decades at the Lichfield Mercury, has died following a short battle with cancer.

The 60-year-old, of Brereton, covered many events in the district's calendar, from election campaigns to royal visits, and became known to thousands of people. He also won dozens of national and regional awards, including the Newspaper Society's free weekly gold award for best photographer in the UK, which he won four times.

In 2008 he won a double gold award taking both the news and sport Newspaper Society national titles – the first time any photographer has won both in the same year.

He also worked on the Tamworth Herald, Sutton Coldfield Observer, Walsall Advertiser and Journal magazine.

In 2003 he published a book of photographs entitled Moments in Time celebrating his 30 years at the Mercury. Mr Williamson, who was born in Blackburn, Lancashire, also had an exhibition of more than 200 photographs from 1973 to 2003 at Lichfield Library Gallery and later exhibited at the Museum of Cannock Chase in 2008.

In 1972 he came to the Midlands to take a one-year course in press photography at Wednesfield before joining the Lichfield Mercury in 1973.

He met his wife Pauline, who now works as the director of learning support at Hagley Park and Fair Oak Academies in Rugeley, in 1974 when he was taking pictures at Burntwood Recreation Centre where she was working as a play leader.

They married in 1976 and the couple had two children, Jon, 34, and Jemma, 31.A statement released by Mr Williamson's family said: "Allan truly loved photography, capturing his passion and appreciation for life in every picture he took."

His funeral service will take place at Lichfield Cathedral on Wednesdayat 11am.

Cheat 'barely able to walk' caught working in a shop

A MAN who claimed he could barely walk worked 10 hours a day in a Cannock butchers shop for seven years while pocketing more than £20,000 incapacity living allowance, a court was told.

Carl Pearce filled in a self-assessment form to allow him to pocket benefits in February 2003.

But three years later he was fit enough to secretly start his job, Wolverhampton Crown Court heard.

"He stated that he was unable or virtually unable to walk but his circumstances changed in January 2006 when he commenced employment at the butchers shop," Mr Duncan Craig, prosecuting, said.

Seven years later the Department of Work and Pensions launched an investigation after being tipped off that Pearce was employed behind the counter at Melvin's Butchers in Market Place, Cannock.

"It was discovered that he had been working there five days a week, 10 hours a day," Mr Craig added.

Investigators secretly filmed Pearce arriving for work on two occasions last summer. In one clip the 55-year-old is seen striding, without apparent difficulty, down the incline to work from the multi-storey car park above the shop.

Miss Alisha Harris, defending, said he had been able to 'manage' the pain through medication. Pearce, of Dingle View, Sedgley, pleaded guilty to illegally receiving a total of £20,178 in incapacity living allowance by failing to notify a change in circumstance and was given a six-month jail sentence suspended for two years and ordered to do 60 hours unpaid work. He has started to repay the money.

Fire service faces extra £5.7m cuts

THE fire and rescue service in Staffordshire faces further cuts of £5.75 million over the next five years.

The emergency service is undergoing an overhaul of the way it operates as it looks at new ways to save money.

It has already had £4m cut from its budget in the past two years.

The Stoke-on-Trent and Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Authority has now been told that it will have to lose £1.75 from its 2015-16 budget – a cut of 8.8 per cent. Last year it had to deal with a £1.5m shortfall.

The figures have emerged as the Government confirmed its funding for local authorities for the coming year.

The cuts will leave Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service with £18.2m on top of what they can collect through council tax, compared with £19.7m last year.

The budget proposals are to be discussed by the strategy and resources committee committee on Monday before their recommendations go before the full authority on February 16.

Couple aiming high for fundraising

Nicola and Daniel Passey with daughter Ruby, aged three, and her five-year-old brother Reece

A SERIES of fundraising events are being planned by a Brereton couple to raise money for the National Autistic Society.

An awareness event and sky dive are already being lined up by Nicola and Daniel Passey, Harrow Close.

Three-year-old daughter Ruby was diagnosed with autism a few weeks ago and they have decided to raise cash for the society and highlight the condition.

The awareness day will see a selection of stalls, a bouncy castle, food and dance performance at Brereton and Ravenhill Park parish hall on April 4.

It takes place from 1 to 4pm and people will be encouraged to make donations. There will also be someone on hand to do head shaving if any fundraiser wants to be more daring.

Mother-of-two Nicola and Daniel, aged 25, who works for Alstom, will also be doing separate sky dives at some point in the year to collect cash for the cause. Nicola is also setting up a weekly support group called Rootastic at the Special Needs Adventure Playground in Cannock to help others.

The 28-year-old said she was willing to go to all lengths, such as doing the sky dive, to raise money.

"The main thing is to make people aware of the condition. It has been a tough time."

It is hoped to collect a minimum of £1,000 and for more information visit the www.justgiving.com/RubyPassey page or go onto Nicola's Facebook site.

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

KATIE Hopkins, the one-time Apprentice candidate who now plies her trade trying to offend as many people as she possibly can with vitriolic comments on Twitter, surely hit a new low with her diatribe about Pauline Cafferkey.

Pauline is the Scottish nurse who contracted Ebola after taking part in an aid mission to help sufferers in Sierra Leone.

Whatever one's views of the mission, the risks involved, or the screening process for people returning from Sierra Leone, referring to somebody whose life is in grave danger as a "sweaty Glaswegian Ebola bomb" is surely beyond the pale.

And, I would venture to suggest, a nurse who has put her life on the line to help save others, demonstrates far more courage than somebody whose main claim to fame is appearing on a television reality show and making snide remarks about northern car salesmen.

Nevertheless, I'm totally with Hopkins when she says the police should have better things to do than become embroiled in the row about her online bile.

Defend

Det Insp Glyn Roberts of Police Scotland said: "Inquiries are ongoing into the nature of these tweets and to establish any potential criminality."

What? Inquiries are ongoing? Her rant consisted of 19 words. How long does it take to investigate that?

And how can there possibly be any criminality in a few rude words about the Scots' propensity to perspire?

Hopkins has hit back, saying 'the freedom to say only things that are polite is no real freedom of speech at all', and while it pains me to say it, the old trout has hit the nail on the head.

The French philosopher Voltaire famously said: "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

And the police – not to mention the 'hundreds' of people who complained about her tweets – would do well to take that on board.

Most right-thinking people will disapprove of what Hopkins has to say on many things.

She makes her living trying gain people's disapproval, and of course they play right into her hands every time they rise to the bait.

But if we really do value the freedom of speech which we have taken for granted for centuries, we must all defend her right to be rude and unpleasant.

Det Insp Roberts should have told the hundreds of complainants to get a life – and then instructed his officers to catch some real criminals instead.

Yes we're on track for a brighter 2015

Reasons to be cheerful – and for the region there really are plenty of them, as JORDAN HARRIS explains

NEW year is a time for positivity and looking ahead to a brighter future.

2015 is promising to be a fantastic year right across the West Midlands, and here are just 15 reasons why we are looking forward to what it has in store.

1. Completion of M6 Smart Motorway Project. For years our roads have been neglected, but now they are due to be brought forward into the 21st century. Turning the M6 into a smart motorway will bring benefits including smoother flow of traffic, more reliable journey times and fewer collisions.

2. Unveiling of the Three Degrees statue. Laurie Cunningham, Brendon Batson and Cyrille Regis helped bring down racism on the terraces during their playing days for West Bromwich Albion. A bronze statue, costing £220,000, will be erected in West Bromwich town centre,portraying the legendary trio.

3. Black Country Day Festival. Organisers of the event designed to celebrate all that is great about the Black Country have said they intend to build on the success of last year's festival in 2015. The day to mark on your calendar is July 14.

4. New A&E Wolverhampton. A new £30m emergency centre at Wolverhampton's New Cross Hospital is expected to be one of the finest in the country. Its accident and emergency department will be three times the size of the current one. The centre will provide crucial extra capacity for patients when it opens in November 2015.

New trams for service between Wolverhampton and Birmingham

5. Sir Elton John comes to Banks's Stadium. There is expected to be a sell-out crowd at Walsall Football Club's ground on June 13. It will be the club's first outdoor concert in over 20 years, with the ground's normal 11,300 capacity extended to around 17,000.

6. Birmingham New Street refurbishment completion. New parts of New Street station have already opened and the stations has been better equipped to cope with the thousands of people who pass through it daily.

7. Dudley town centre revamp. Residents in Dudley will see the final product of the town centre's makeover in 2015, including its historic market place. The new-look market will have 74 stalls, new paving and feature lighting.

8. Wolverhampton youth zone. Wolves chairman Steve Morgan has said that the £6m youth zone project, to be called The Way, will be something for Wolverhampton to be proud of, allowing youngsters to take part in five-a-side football, amateur dramatics, music, dancing, basketball, netball and a host of other activities.

9. Completion of Midland Metro service between Wolverhampton and Birmingham. The completion of Metro tracks between Wolverhampton and Birmingham will be great news for all.

10. New West Bromwich Building Society headquarters. The 70,000 sq ft new landmark site will house 700 staff in the five-storey complex at the Providence Place development in West Bromwich.

11. Castle Creatures at Dudley Zoo. An interactive medieval experience featuring live animals will tell the story of the Earl of Dudley's family and explain the history of the castle.

12. Wolverhampton interchange. It is set to become the heart of the city's transport network at the centre of a £111.7m regeneration in the city. 2015 is set to be another year of solid progress for the Wolverhampton Interchange project, which aims to combine rail, tram and bus services as well as restaurants, office space and shops.

13. Cannock gets its first Marks and Spencer. Cannock has long aspired to having an M&S store. In 2012, its name was at the top of the wish list of brands council bosses hoped to attract.

14. A £7m Wednesbury leisure centre. A 25-metre pool, two dance studios and a 100-station fitness suite are just some of the attributes Wednesbury's new multi million pound leisure will have to offer locals. The site is due to open in April 2015.

15. A £50m Mailbox redevelopment. The former Royal Mail sorting office was sold in 2011 and new owners Brockton Capital and Milligan Retail have now confirmed their plans for a regeneration.

WEEK IN POLITICS

with Daniel Wainwright

FOUR million conversations are what the Labour party's leader says it must hold between now and polling day.

Between them, shadow chancellor Ed Balls and shadow work and pensions secretary Rachel Reeves clocked up a few of those in Staffordshire and the Black Country recently.

With no party commanding an overall majority in the Commons, the run-up to the May 7 General Election is going to be something of a level playing field between Labour and the Conservatives.

They both need to hold on to every seat they won last time and to win even more if they are to avoid another compromise-laden coalition.

Both are losing votes to other parties, specifically UKIP, the Greens and the SNP (north of the border, obviously).

Hence Miss Reeves played the consolidation game in Dudley North, the most marginal Labour seat in the Black Country while Mr Balls headed for Cannock Chase.

The latter was the scene of a symbolic defeat, at least in numerical terms, for Labour. It's where the Tories saw the largest swing to them in 2010.

It contains, in theory, the largest proportion of voters who were prepared to desert one party for its arch enemy. If Labour can win this back, it stands to reason it can win back others as well.

Voter

In the 1990s we had Essex Man, the typical voter described as 'working class, father electrician, right-wing, keen hanger, noisily rambunctious, no subtlety'. Then Tony Blair came up with another type of voter, the so-called Mondeo Man.

"His dad voted Labour," he said. "He used to vote Labour, too. But he'd bought his own house now. He'd set up his own business. He was doing very nicely. 'So I've become a Tory', he said. In that moment, he crystallised for me the basis of our failure. His instinct was to get on in life. And he thought our instincts were to stop him."

In both Labour visits to the Black Country and Staffordshire, the front-benchers met apprentices. Under Mr Blair there was a drive to get half of young people into higher education. Now there's a renewed interest in apprenticeships to give employers the skilled workforce they need.

While Mr Balls was tinkering around on a go-kart with two student mechanics at South Staffordshire College it occurred to me that Cannock Mechanic could well determine the outcome of this election.

Whether it's the young voter or their parent or grandparent, all of them want to know the younger ones are going to have a chance to get on in life, get a job and make a contribution.

Hotshot teenager to represent GB

Pheobe Taylor, aged 14, takes aim at Rugeley Rifle Club as she prepares to represent Great Britain

A TEENAGER from Staffordshire has been selected to represent the Great Britain Junior Air Rifle Squad in Germany.

Pheobe Taylor, aged 14, is set to compete in the 10 metre air rifle and 50 metre three positions target events in an International match in Oldenburg. She will travel to the match in April with the rest of the squad and they will come up against the teams of Germany, France, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland.

The Rugeley Rifle Club member started shooting a year ago when her stepfather Martyn Buttery introduced her to the sport.

Mr Buttery, a councillor for Cannock Chase and chairman of his stepdaughter's club, is a national multi-medallist himself and even captained the GB side from 2010-11.

The 41-year-old said: "It all started when she came to the club to watch me shoot and wanted to have a go herself.

"Some people pick it up quicker than others but she's taken to it really well and is really sticking with it, which is good to see."

Pheobe's good form earned the youngster a call-up to the squad following a successful training weekend in which she won gold in her event as the youngest competitor.

And mother and stepfather of the Kingsmead Technology College pupil could not be any prouder.

"The whole club is so happy and proud of how well Pheobe has done but her mum and I are especially, said Mr Buttery. "She's working so hard and it's good to see young people trying their best to be as good as they can get at something rather than sitting in playing their Xbox."

He added: "The long-term aim for Pheobe will be the 2018 Commonwealth games on the Gold Coast in Australia and 2020 Olympics in Tokyo."

"Unfortunately the 2016 Olympics in Brazil are too soon for her but I don't see why not for the events in 2018 and 2020 – especially the way training is going for her at the moment."

The schoolgirl currently trains four times a week but has plans to up the ante in preparation for the big match-up.

Stadium plan lacks facilities

IN reply to Mr P Frondigoun about Cannock Chase Stadium we all know how the Conservative council took something important from the people of Cannock for money, but the argument put forward for the Labour party is a bit hollow.

Yes, great news that the stadium is being redeveloped, but where is the running track and other facilities which the old stadium provided?

All that is being provided is a few football pitches and allotments – a low-cost 'keep the public happy' project.

No, the Labour party is not doing us any great favours. Invest in Cannock and build a properly maintained stadium. I say to all the political parties: do the right thing, not the short route for cash.

I feel that it's about time that councils on whatever political side should be made accountable for their actions.

Addicts go to rehab centres for help

REGARDING unfounded comments relating to rehab centre in Cannock, firstly the people that use this service come from many different backgrounds.

Some may never have worked, others would have held down professional jobs, but have all at some time in their life have become addicted to alcohol or substances for many different reasons.

They are there because they want the help and support to change their lives. It is not an easy ride to get the help that is offered from addictions centres. Firstly through the help of social workers you have to be on a waiting list to gain a place. You have to attend support group meetings, and when you get a date for a residential place you have to be clean of drugs/alcohol. Once there the team work tirelessly to help you through the addiction.

Drug and alcohol abuse is rife in all areas of the UK, Cannock included.

I know about this because a family member through personal issues became a drug user. These people based at Burton supported my family member and the whole family were given help and support through therapy and helping us all to deal with it.

Today things are so different. My family member is a hardworking person with a job, a car, a family of their own and if it wasn't for having somewhere to help us we wouldn't be as contented a family as we are now.

Crisis in the NHS is a national scandal

THE crisis in the National Health Service is a national scandal, and I believe the pro-austerity programme is designed to cause the systematic demise and privatisation of the NHS. The latest crisis in the NHS is the temporary closure of several hospitals' Accident and Emergency departments in England and the worst patient waiting times in A&E on record – due to staff shortages and high demand.

Government ministers point the finger of blame on patients, disingenuously arguing that many should not be accessing A&E at all. However, many patients find it almost impossible to get a GP appointment.

And the acute shortage of permanent health staff, due to cuts in the number of nurses being trained and budget cuts, have led to long A&E waiting times. I believe the actions of this government is stark evidence of cuts to pave the way for the privatisation of the NHS.

Shoppers shun towns

SO Cannock's Labour council has a shortfall of £240,000 on parking fines. Do you reduce the army of traffic wardens? No, you get more.

Don't they realise that when the motorist is milked, they don't come back? Visitors stop, shops shut, towns shut.

That is Labour, this will be the future with Labour, it's called hatred of the public.

How do we get to see a doctor?

WITH reference to Dr Dan de Rosa, chairman of Wolverhampton Clinical Commissioning Group, and his comment that people should only attend A&E if they have a serious illness.

I agree with his advice, but when people are ill and cannot get doctors' appointments or walk-in centres are closed, what are they supposed to do?

As a young man in the 1970s, you were able to go to your doctor without an appointment and doctors took their turn in out-of-hours emergency home visits.

It seems GPs want to cherry pick what hours they should work; most people's employment that requires unsociable hours accepted it as part of the job.

How would GPs respond if they required a service from one of the many organisations that serve our community to be told 'Sorry, closed for business, try again Monday after 8am'?

Nothing but praise for water company

YESTERDAY afternoon we turned on the tap to discover we had no water.

A phone call to South Staffs Water, which was answered by a very pleasant lady, brought a visit from a chap who went to great lengths to discover the problem and left us with a large pack of bottled water and an assurance that it would be put right that day and as soon as possible.

My husband is 83 and in poor health, so he was agitated, and by now it was getting dark . . .

However, a 'gang' arrived and worked non-stop, by 6.15 we had water.

Everything was put tidy, and we cannot thank everyone enough, especially as they had had a very busy day with burst pipes etc.

Foxhunting with dogs is not the best method

I write regarding the current foxhunting ban. I live in a rural area and do not know anyone who supports foxhunting. I appreciate that most wild animals, foxes, badgers, squirrels et al can sometimes become serious pests and need culling, but I cannot believe that the best way is to hunt them down with dogs and rejoice as they are killed.

I abhor animal cruelty and am passionate about issues regarding Halal and Kosher meat which comes from animals which are killed without stunning. If foxes are a pest, then humanely cull them, but not by some ungoverned group on horseback with a pack of specially trained dogs.

Will aims for coast to coast in 24 hours

Charity cyclist Will Bryan and his dog Wolfred, who will be with him on part of the cross-country ride

A CYCLING fan is putting his skills to the test by pedalling 123 miles across the country in one day – and his pet pup Wolfred will be tagging along too. Will Bryan plans to take the Shih Tzu Jack Russell cross in a special carrier on the front of the bike for the first 10 to 15 miles. He said: "I quite often take him out on rides along the canal."

The 29-year-old, of Church Street, Bridgtown, is a keen cycling tourist and hopes to carry out his coast-to-coast stint on April 11. He said: "A distance like that is normally done in three of four days – my challenge is to do it in one."

"I wanted to raise money for a charity and I remembered how fantastic the Macmillan nurses were who looked after my grandfather Gordon Bryan who died nearly 10 years ago." More recently his grandmother, June Ann Ridley, also died of cancer, he said. The former Cannock Chase High School pupil will be cycling the route between Whitehaven on the west coast and Sunderland in the east, taking in some of the Lake District mountains.

Probation service in region is privatised

THE probation service in the West Midlands and Staffordshire has been privatised after a multi-million pound deal was signed with a consortium to manage 20,000 criminals.

Ingeus, a large outsourcer, won the contract under a venture called the Reducing Reoffending Partnership with charity CRI and the St Giles Trust.

By Rob Golledge

The Staffordshire and West Midlands Probation Service has now been renamed the Staffordshire and West Midlands Rehabilitation Company.

The private firm will manage low-risk offenders while sex offenders, violent and serious criminals will be looked after by the National Probation Service.

The Government has awarded 21 regional contracts worth £450 million a year to private firms to run the medium to low-risk probation service in a move that has been highly controversial. The deals will see the companies paid on their performance.

Concerns over private firms holding lucrative public service contracts escalated after security firm G4S agreed to repay £109m overcharging the Ministry of Justice for the electronic tagging of offenders. Outsourcing group Serco had to pay £70.5m over the scandal. The Reducing Reoffending Partnership will officially start running the service from February 1.

Napo, the trade union for probation service staff, launched a High Court bid against the reforms but this was later dropped.

When the union launched the action in October it said the plans put probation staff and the public at risk.

Across the country, private providers will monitor 200,000 low and medium-risk offenders. Responsibility for rehabilitating 31,000 high-risk offenders will fall on the National Probation Service.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Brian a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Action plan to expand £100m tourism industry

EXTRA hotels and B&Bs are needed in South Staffordshire to help cater for the two million tourists who visit the area.

A further 40 beds are necessary to cope with demand, according to a new report by the district council.

The tourism industry is worth £104 million within South Staffordshire. There are currently 1,387 beds at hotels, B&Bs and self-catering facilities around the district but a further 40 are needed by 2017.

South Staffordshire Council has pledged to continue its support for tourism businesses to ensure they thrive over the next three years. The council has set out plans to further boost tourism in the district, creating more jobs and bringing more money into the local economy.

Over the past 12 years, South Staffordshire has seen a continual growth in tourism. The year 2013 saw the number of trips taken in the district top 2.2 million, bringing £104m into the local economy.

Supported

Now, the council's new tourism strategy sets out how it plans to maintain its support for businesses, improve visitor information, and ensure South Staffordshire provides a quality visitor experience. The council will for the first time be delivering the strategy with South Staffordshire Tourism Association.

Councillor Bob McCardle, cabinet member for strategic services, said: "It is estimated that just over 2,100 jobs in the district are supported by tourism, meaning it is now one of the largest contributors to the local economy.

"Added to this, around £9 million is being spent in the local economy each month.

"Therefore, it's essential that we promote South Staffordshire as a great place to visit, encourage investment to sustain local businesses and increase employment in the tourism sector. This new strategy symbolises both the council and South Staffordshire Tourism Association's commitment and support to tourism locally."

City's qualities on show

A COLLECTION of paintings depicting Japanese modernity and tradition is on display at the Museum of Cannock Chase until February 27.

The Graham Melville Reorientation exhibition presents an insight into the evolving contemporary city, the activity, intensity, tranquillity, colour, nature and the people existing within its infrastructure. Graham works from his loft studio in Sutton Coldfield, using his journeys and recollections as inspiration.

Through this exhibition, he hopes to be able to relay many of the unique qualities Tokyo has to offer and share the magic and wonder of the city.

Record-breaking firm is right at home

Luis Zubialde, managing director at Palletways UK, which responded to a soaring demand for home deliveries

A STAFFORDSHIRE delivery firm has been breaking records, thanks to soaring demand for home deliveries.

Palletways, based in Lichfield, delivered 100,000 pallets in a week for the first time – and then did it again the following week. The company specialises in handling freight on pallets and links its Lichfield hub with delivery depots.

Palletways says the record volume was driven by a significant increase in demand for home deliveries in the lead-up to Christmas, continued growth in business within its domestic networks and cross-border deliveries in Europe.

Luis Zubialde, managing director, said: "This milestone is testimony to the business-critical service we offer by ensuring express and cost-efficient deliveries of palletised freight across Europe."

Bid to stop norovirus virus

HEALTH chiefs in Staffordshire are urging people suffering with norovirus not to go into hospitals.

University Hospitals of North Midlands NHS Trust is asking people with the symptoms of the virus to avoid going in.

Gill Adamson, director of nursing, said: "We are now in the prime season for norovirus, commonly known as the 'winter vomiting bug'. Norovirus comes into the hospital from the community but it is more contagious than the common cold and can be more severe for vulnerable patients.

"If you have the symptoms, please don't come to the hospital as you may well bring norovirus with you. This will help to prevent norovirus spreading throughout the hospital."

People suffering symptoms of diarrhoea or vomiting should call NHS 111 rather than A&E unless they are seriously ill.

Norovirus is easily transmitted from one person to another.

It can be transmitted by contact with an infected person, by consuming contaminated food or water or by contact with contaminated surfaces or objects.

The symptoms of norovirus infection will begin around 12 to 48 hours after becoming infected.

Firm on the move as part of expansion plan

An artist's impression of the sales and distribution centre which HellermannTyton will open in Cannock

A WEST MIDLANDS company is relocating its sales and distribution centre to a larger base in Cannock.

HellermannTyton will be transferring to Kingswood Lakeside business park.

The firm, which is a supplier of products for fastening, fixing, identifying and protecting cables and their connecting components, is currently located in Aldridge. It is understood that staff that currently working at the Aldridge premises will move over to the new base in Cannock. Bosses say building work will start on the distribution centre in March. This artist's impression shows how the base will look when it is finished.

Designed by Coltham Developments, it includes a 66,000 sq ft distribution facility and 7,700 sq ft of office space.

It follows more than two years of discussions with the company, which has numerous clients in the automotive, defence and electrical sector.

The company said the plans would safeguard jobs, support business growth and could see the creation of new roles in the future.

Council Chase Council leader George Adamson said: "This is excellent news for Cannock and will bring new jobs to the area. The staff will be transferring over from Aldridge I expect but as the company is growing it will be creating extra posts in Cannock."

The firm has more than 3,000 employees working on the development of product innovations in cable management. It operates in 34 companies across five continents. The origins of the company date back to the 1930s.

In recent years, environmental firm Veolia built its three-storey headquarters for a workforce of 400 at Kingswood Lakeside, and logistics company APC constructed a £15 million distribution centre which employs 420 people.

Lives of lost loved ones remembered

Friends of St Giles

THE Light up a Life service held by St Giles Hospice and the Cannock Friends' of St Giles at St Luke's Church was as well attended as ever and St Lukes' Church was full.

People were greeted by Cannock Friends of St Giles and members of the Rotary and Soroptimist International clubs of Cannock with orders of service and a candle to remember the life of a loved one.

The service this year was again enhanced by singers Bel Canto who added their harmonies to the carols and performed two special items. These and the readings from Jayne Tooth, senior staff nurse and manager of St Giles Day Hospice and Trish Mellor of Cannock Friends added to the atmosphere and mood of the evening.

As always the most poignant time in the service was when the lights were turned off before the Christmas tree lights were switched on, leaving the church lit by the lights from the candles and allowing everyone the opportunity for quiet and private thought and reflection.

Following the service, led by Rev Peter Hart, Helen Relihan from St Giles invited everyone into the church centre for refreshments and to see the book of Remembrance where names of all those being remembered are recorded.

A copy of the book will be available at St Luke's until the end of January.

More than £600 was donated to St Giles Hospice on the evening.

Club members gather for the dedication of the Rotary flag

Rotary Club of Lichfield

PRESIDENT David Kershaw presented long-service awards at a presentation to Jordan Silver for 50 years, for 30 years to Ian Hiskins, Roger Williams and Ian James and a 25 year award to John Cole.

Two recipients were unable to attend. Simon James was set to receive his on January 8 and the president has agreed with Derrick Duval that he will present his certificate at the first meeting he can attend.

A Co-Operative store collection for ShelterBox raised £510.71 and a heads and tails competition at the Christmas party generated £150 for St Giles Hospice Hospice. A wine tasting at the Guildhall in November raised £340 for Rotary charities.

The culmination of an idea to tidy up Rotary Ridge was marked by the dedication of a Rotary Flag, attended by president David Kershaw and president of Lichfield St Chad Keith Eagland, other members of both clubs and District Governor John Crawford.

Although the site was provided by the National UK Rotary Clubs at the original formation of the venture the Rotary site has a large line of pine trees that screens the Arboretum from the A38 duel carriageway.

The Reverend Elizabeth Wall blessed the flag, which cost some £300, before it was raised.

Money raised for campaign

Cannock Soroptimists

MORE than £140 was donated to the 'See Solar, Cook Solar' campaign run by Soroptimists when the Cannock & District branch met on Human Rights Day.

The initiative is raising money for projects that educate women about renewable energy, while empowering and enabling opportunities for them by providing solar lanterns and cookers.

At the December meeting, when members were entertained by club member Shirley Brown and were visited by Father Christmas, a sum of £145 was donated and has been sent to the appeal.

Centre in campaign for swim lessons

NUFFIELD Health and the Amateur Swimming Association (ASA) have entered into a partnership to provide more children than ever with access to the ASA Learn to Swim pathway.

The programme, launching this month at venues including Cannock Fitness & Wellbeing Centre, in East Cannock Road, Hednesford, will be available to members and non-members with enrolment now open.

Following the ASA's recent school swimming census, which discovered that 45 per cent of children aged between seven and 11 are unable to swim 25 metres unaided, the partnership will support the ASA's calls to help more primary-school aged children learn to swim in 2015.

Nuffield Health aims to help by making the ASA Learn to Swim programme available to 10,000 children through its centres nationwide.

There are also classes beyond levels one to seven for those pupils wishing to continue swimming training or to hone a specific discipline, as well as swimming lessons for adults.

Nuffield Health centres will be hosting presentation and parents' evenings, as well as providing progress report cards and certificates.

Youngsters work as Team on fire service's course

A GROUP of young people have been rewarded for completing a Prince's Trust course run by Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service.

The group of 11 young people, aged between 16 and 25, have achieved The Prince's Trust Certificate after taking part in the charity's Team programme.

They received their awards from Chief Fire Officer Peter Dartford and the trust's regional head of programmes, Linda Norwell, at a ceremony at the County Buildings in Stafford.

By David Banner

One participant, 17 year-old Jack Houlston from Hednesford, said: "Thanks to the Prince's Trust course many doors have now opened for me and I have had some amazing experiences.

Skills

"I have much more confidence now and feel that I am a totally different person," he added.

The 12-week Team programme is aimed at 16 to 25-year-olds and helps unemployed young people gain the skills and confidence they need to get into work or training.

During the course the participants have completed a residential programme, two fundraising challenges, a community project, a two-week work placement programme and a team challenge. They have also received free driving lessons from the fire service and some of them have completed their theory test.

Safer Communities CIC in partnership with Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service teamed up with The Prince's Trust to launch the charity's Team programme, which has been funded by Stafford College.

The next Prince's Trust course starts on February 2.

For more information, email princes.trust@staffordshirefire.gov.uk or call or text Joyce Underwood on 07971 89353.

Further information is also available online at www.staffordshirefire.gov.uk/princes-trust.asp

Name change after choir in venue move

A CHOIR has changed its name after leaving its venue of more than 60 years.

The former Cannock Ex-Servicemen's Club Male Voice Choir has dropped 'club' from its original title and moved its home to Victoria Working Men's Club in Hednesford.

The group's managing director Dorothy Bates said they felt they could not carry on using the name having moved out of the club in Walsall Road.

They had used the practice room there since launching 63 years ago.

Now called Cannock Ex-Servicemen's Male Voice Choir, the 16-strong group will hold their first concert under their new name on February 5 at Forest Arts Centre in Hawbush Road, Leamore.

Shops in plea for new stock

A CHARITY with shops in Hednesford and Lichfield is appealing for unwanted presents.

Acorns Children's Hospice is urging people to donate items to its shops.

The charity needs clothes and other items to boost stock levels and help raise funds to continue its work supporting children with life-limiting and life-threatening conditions.

Team handles pressure to raise £10k

Employees from Cannock materials handling firm Briggs Equipment who took part in Million Makers

STAFF at a Cannock company have managed to raise almost £10,000 for The Prince's Trust charity.

A team of sales development executives from materials handling firm Briggs Equipment took part in Million Makers.

The group of new employees had to brave a Dragons' Den-style interview with representatives from the local business community before coming up with inventive ways of turning funding of £1,500 into £10,000.

Over the past six months the Briggs Equipment team has been mentored and coached by the company's senior managers, as it competed against teams of aspiring entrepreneurs from around the UK with the overall aim of collectively raising £1 million to help The Prince's Trust. To achieve their goal, team members had to pitch their idea to a panel of experts at The Vaults in Birmingham.

The workers got their project under way by creating and selling 'Revival Rations' office survival kits containing daily essentials such as stationery and tea bags.

Prepare

More money was raised by organising and selling tickets to special events, including a Daytona track day at a premier karting venue in the UK.

And the third and final part of the project saw the team give up their weekends to prepare used forklift trucks for a series of trade auctions.

In total the team raised £9,942.

Daniel Wood, who took part in the challenge for Briggs, said: "Senior managers assisted us in drawing up a business plan and encouraged us as we honed our skills and because we needed to call on support from various departments and build relationships along the way.

"I feel the Million Makers initiative has really helped us to integrate into the business.

"As each of us discovered our strengths, which we intend to put to good use in our day-to-day work, we developed as individuals, as a team and as friends."

During the past 12 months, The Prince's Trust has supported 4,500 young people across the West Midlands.

Flats Spring up where city brewery once ruled

DERELICT for several years, and heavily fire damaged, the old Butler's Springfield Brewery has been the subject of a number of redevelopment plans since its closure.

MEMORY LANE

By Alec Brew

It used to dominate the area just the other side of the multiple rail tracks which led to High and Low Level stations, and the canal which ran parallel.

Many of the people who lived in the rows of terraced houses which lay in its shadow worked at 'The Spring', and were proud of the beer it produced.

When William Butler moved his successful brewing business there, and expanded, it was because of the Cul Well, the ready spring water supply, and high water table, which make the area the source of Smestow Brook. Its rival competitor in the town, of course, was Banks's, Wolverhampton and Dudley Breweries, and now right across the road from the sad shell of Springfield Brewery is the transport yard of its triumphant surviving rival, Marston's, as it is now called.

Demolished

Many of the houses in Springfield have been demolished, the local school, St Stephan's, has moved, and the area does not have the same community feel as it once did.

There were street parties for VE Day, Coronation parties at the Lamp Tavern and the school, and every year a May Day parade and party centred on the brewery.

The other major employer, on the other side, Chubb Locks has also gone, and Joseph Evans' Pumps, in Woden Road before that.

In a sign of the times the area is now dominated by the new student halls of residence.

No doubt the students still walk from the city centre over the canal bridge, under one railway, and then over another on a footbridge, as if passing through a portal into another world.

But the difference is that today they do not descend 'The Nineteen Steps' to Grimstone Street, just alongside the Japanese-run fish and chip shop.

Police calls answered quicker in shake-up

CALLS to Staffordshire Police are being answered quicker following an overhaul of the force's control room.

The force was struggling to deal promptly with emergency 999 calls and 101 non-emergency inquiries last year. A single control room has now been opened at the force's Stafford headquarters, rather than being based at two sites in Stafford and Hanley.

The average waiting time for 101 calls has reduced from around six minutes in November to less than 60 seconds. The percentage of 999 calls answered within 10 seconds has also improved from 66 per cent in November to 86 per cent.

It follows an urgent action plan agreed with Staffordshire Police and weekly performance monitoring arrangements around call centre performance put in place with the Police and Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis's office.

Jane Sawyers – 'confident'

Deliver

Temporary Chief Constable Jane Sawyers said: "We have made good progress to improve the time taken to answer the public calls for service.

"It is really important for me to recognise the excellent commitment, dedication and skill of our control room staff who are constantly seeking to deliver the very best levels of customer service.

"We will continue to build on the improvements made thus far so that the 101 and 999 systems match the levels of service our communities expect.

"I am confident moving forward that we will continue to meet those expectations," she added.

Mr Ellis said: "New expertise has been provided and new call centre management which has been put in place is improving the performance very substantially.

"I'm relieved performance of this critical service is now heading firmly in the right direction. The short-term measures that have been put in place will be followed by further work around general customer service in the policing environment.

"This has been a serious issue which through joint effort is now being resolved.

"The call centre and other staff involved in the contact centre have worked beyond what would normally be expected to try to get things back on track and my thanks and admiration go out to all those who have dug so deep in difficult circumstances. Lessons must, and will, be learned."

Hi-tech scheme to cut red tape will cost £500k

A ROLL-OUT of computer tablets to police officers in Staffordshire is set to cost around £500,000.

Police and Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis wants all front line officers to use mobile technology to cut down on red tape in a move to 'fundamentally transform' policing.

The roll-out is due to start around March and April.

Mr Ellis said using the computers to access information and input data would free up about 5,000 man hours a week, or the equivalent of 100 extra officers. The project is expected to cost £500,000.

Currently, front-line officers spend about six out of every 10 hours in communities, rather than at police stations, Mr Ellis said.

Using tablet computers is expected to take that up to almost nine out of 10 hours.

South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson said: "Any measures that mean police officers spend more time on the beat rather than tied up with paperwork in the office is good.

"We want to see a visible police presence in our communities.

"We want to see more technology used to crack down on crime and to see police on our street 24 hours a day," Mr Williamson added.

Party's election campaign office opens

Labour supporters help to launch the new campaign office at 11 Market Street, Hednesford

LABOUR'S new campaign office has been opened. The office is at 11 Market Street, Hednesford, in the heart of the Cannock Chase constituency.

Campaigning activity will be undertaken at the office and it will also welcome members of the public to pop in with any issues or concerns they may have.

Fight

Janos Toth, Labour's Parliamentary Candidate for Cannock Chase, said he was delighted to be joined by shadow justice minister Stephen Twigg, who officially opened the office.

Mr Toth said: "The fight is on for the MP race and I want to make sure that we beat the Tories and ensure a Labour victory.

"This is why it is fantastic to have a Labour campaign office in Hednesford. I have represented people across Cannock Chase for 23 years as a councillor.

"If elected I would be a full-time MP serving residents across Cannock Chase.

"Labour is on the side of people in Cannock Chase. We will guarantee 25 hours a week free childcare, freeze energy bills and bring in new decent-paying jobs to our area.

"My top priority is supporting the NHS which is under a massive attack from this Tory-led government. The A&E hours at Stafford Hospital and the hours at Cannock minor injuries unit have both been slashed.

"People in Cannock Chase are being short changed by not having the same money spent on NHS services. I pledge to fight for residents in our constituency to get the best NHS services.

"I have lived here for over 25 years – that is why local services and getting the best deal for local people is so important to me."

Mr Twigg said: "I was delighted to open the Labour campaign centre for Cannock Chase. Winning Cannock Chase and getting Janos Toth elected is a top priority for the party, to ensure we have a Labour government next May that will put the NHS first, abolish the bedroom tax and get young people into work.

"It was great to officially open the office with campaigners totally committed to a Labour victory.

"We have a large and energetic group of activists and are better organised than we ever have been before."

Albums capture feel of sixties folk

Reviews by Danny Farragher

The Eve Folk Recordings are a snapshot of musical history

The Eve Folk Recordings
Various artists

THIS collection is bigger than the sum of its parts and the two CDs reach back into the early sixties.

Geoff Stephens and Peter Eden had overseen Donovan's almost overnight success which led them to be commissioned to produce four albums – they only managed three, The Eve Folk Recordings.

The first features some of Donovan's hits and Mick Softley's Songs for Swinging Survivors. The second disc holds albums from Bob Davenport & The Rakes and Vernon Haddock's Jubilee Lovelies.

Haddock's band tapped into the minstrel/skiffle/jug band sound. There one off album sold just 400 copies.

Davenport's album is real grass roots stuff, his songs sounding just as they would have in the clubs.

The Eve Folk Recordings is available now through RPM Records.

Paper Grenade
ChrisTye

There is something restful about Midlander Chris Tye's style of singing and playing.

His songs have real emotional depth and a sense of genuine feelings being invested in every note.

Heart To The Ground, the opening track, mimics a heartbeat in the soft spots of this full ballad and Lisbon Harbour is a pleasant and slightly jaunty song reminiscent of The Housemartins/Beautiful South.

Tye from Balsall Common, with Michael Clarke, has put together music which is very easy to digest and enjoy.

Paper Grenade, the title comes from a conversation about coping with cancer, is a really thoughtful album from an artist who has a cool way of expressing himself.

Paper Grenade is available through www.christye.co.uk.

Chasing The Sun
The Sweet Lowdown

If you like your bluegrass mellow and with a seriously feminine touch then Shanti Bremer, Miriam Sonstenes and Amanda Blied – The Sweet Lowdown will hit the spot.

The Canadian trio's fourth album is subtle, gentle and has harmonies as delicate as a breeze across a field of corn. This is a musical hot bubble bath you can slide into.

River Winding Down has elegant banjo picking from Bremer matched by her gentle voice and balanced beautifully by Sonstenes' fiddle and Blied's guitar.

There are delicious harmonies with The Birds & TheBees plus, with April 29th, Bremer proves banjo music can be subtle, light and delightful.

Chasing The Sun is available through www. thesweetlowdown.ca.

UKIP under fire over poll calls

COMPLAINTS have been made to Cannock Chase Council about canvassing calls being made to homeowners by UKIP.

Council bosses say at least five people have been in touch in recent weeks, saying the caller told them they got their number from the council. But council leader George Adamson said: "The council would not do that."

UKIP denies the claims and says that calling people is part of an election campaign.

Pupils count on their maths skills for win

A GROUP of pupils from Chase View Primary School in Rugeley are celebrating being recognised as being the best mathematicians in Staffordshire after taking part in online maths programme SUMDOG.

More than five million children use the programme as part of their maths studies at school and at home.

SUMDOG allows pupils to develop their maths skills by playing educational games against each other, with opponents often being in different countries or continents, or activities generated by the computer which calculates the correct level of challenge and strengths and areas for development.

It has been hugely popular since being introduced to Year 5 at Chase View with the children regularly accessing it at school and at home with great improvements in their maths progress as a result. Along with its ongoing activities SUMDOG periodically offers area championships and in the Staffordshire contest Chase View achieved success in two fields.

During the week-long contest, as a school they answered more correct questions than any other school in the whole county and additionally in the top 10 students in the county five of the places were taken by Chase View pupils out of more than 300 who took part.

Cricket club bowled over by £3,000 grant

A CRICKET club has been awarded almost £3,000 to install extra security measures after a number of attempted break-ins.

Hammerwich Cricket Club is using the money to install crime prevention equipment including steel doors and alarm systems to all of its outbuildings.

In the past 20 months, there have been two or three attempted break-ins at the club. In the summer, someone tried to steal a tractor from a shed. In 2013, a two-ton lawn roller was stolen from the club.

The club received the cash from Police and Crime Commissioner Matthew Ellis's People Power Fund. David Henn, chairman of Hammerwich Cricket Club, said: "A grant from the People Power Fund has enabled the club to complete security measures such as a palisade entrance gate. A CCTV system has been installed in and around the clubhouse and anti-ram telescopic barriers have been fitted.

"The club has now carried out all it possibly can do to deter thieves thanks to the People Power Fund.

"The club's committee are always looking to make improvements. The next major project is to improve the practice facilities to accommodate the increasing number of both junior and senior members."

Whatever the occasion, we'll make it that extra bit special...

Making a case to support growth of small business

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

AS a small business owner, what keeps you awake at night?

For many, balancing the books is top of the list. Healthy finances are crucial to allow you to both invest in your business whilst protecting it from what the future may bring.

Fortunately, there is a range of government support available to help your business to be secure and most importantly, grow.

One example of a small business which has received government financial support is Trunki, which has won more than 50 product and design awards.

Their innovatively designed products – including their famous children's suitcase – have enabled them to access a range of government products and services, helping them to take huge leaps as a business.

Founder Rob Law with his Trunki invention

Patented

"Trunki has received government support in a number of ways," explains lawyer Rob Law, founder of Trunki. "Firstly, we worked hard to re-shore our manufacturing to our plastics moulding factory in Plymouth, allowing us to benefit from The Patent Box scheme."

The Patent Box enables companies to apply a lower rate of corporation tax to profits earned from patented inventions. It is being phased in over a four-year period and once the full benefit of the Patent Box is in effect, from April 2017, it will result in a 10 per cent rate of corporation tax being applied to such returns.

"We have always applied for patents for all of our products to build up our IP portfolio," said Rob. "It's one of the most valuable assets we have.

"This scheme is brilliant, allowing us to re-invest more of our earnings back into the business. It motivated us to stay in the UK and not to offshore.

It rewards inventive companies too, which can only be a good thing.

"Secondly, we received government support through R&D tax credits for the development of our BoostAPak children's car seat and for the re-engineered version of our Trunki suitcases, which is now easier to manufacture in the UK and to recycle."

There are many types of financial support available to businesses with ambitions to grow.

As well as the increasing variety of finance sources now available, such as crowdfunding, bank loans and peer-to-peer lending, there are many government schemes and incentives – on top of those Trunki accessed – devised to help small businesses secure the funding they need to succeed.

For example, your business may be eligible for financial support packages such as the Enterprise Investment Scheme, SMART grants or Social Investment Tax Relief.

Or perhaps your business needs the support to secure initial funding to help turn your idea into a reality.

To learn about all of the finance options available to you and your business, and for more detail on how the government can support you financially, visit www.greatbusiness.gov.uk/finance

"Tax relief on new products helped our business take off"

Rob Law, CEO of Trunki

Businesses investing in new products and services can claim tax relief on their investment over 5 years. To discover how Trunki benefited from Government support and how you can too, visit greatbusiness.gov.uk/tax-relief

Mature environment – the large open plan common room

Shire Oak principals with the head boys and girls

Building confidence as part of a residential course in rural Llangollen

Preparing for a successful year

THE last seven years have seen the transformation of the sixth form at Shire Oak Academy in Walsall.

From an average point score of 574 in 2008, the last four years have seen students achieving consistently over 850.

Through a combination of rigorous monitoring, high standards of care, an excellent curriculum and staff with a real passion for learning, the academy continues to push itself to the forefront of post-16 education.

The governing body has been keen to support the drive in post-16 standards, investing heavily in the facilities and support structure. The sixth form proudly boasts an outstanding, modern learning environment with a wide range of facilities to help students to reach their potential.

With the opening last year of a new sixth form suite along with a dedicated study block and large open plan common room in the Mercia Building, students can enjoy dedicated facilities, including an ICT suite, toilets, work areas, classroom, offices and enough space for more than 250 students to socialise and relax between study.

The recent Ofsted inspection reported: "The sixth form is good. It is well led, and students benefit from good teaching and achieve well.'

The inspectors also commented that "Students are given good support and guidance and are well prepared for the next stage in their learning and for future employment."

The success of Shire Oak Academy sixth form can be measured not only by the results the students have achieved over the last four years, nor by the number that go onto universities or apprenticeships, but by the fond memories with which they leave the sixth form.

Enrichment

In October the sixth form made their annual journey to the Bryntysilio Outdoor Education Centre for a residential course as part of the academy's curriculum enrichment programme.

Considerable emphasis was placed on social skills and living in a small community.

Students made the journey to Wales for a weekend where 24 threw themselves into the activities. On the Friday night blindfolded students braved the nightline obstacle course, working together as a group, to navigate their way around.

Saturday started with team building exercises before donning wetsuits and heading for a local gorge.

Despite the cold water, the group battled their way up the gorge, completing activities along the way, before finishing off with a 6ft leap into a plunge pool.

The final day's activity saw the group on the water mastering their paddling skills in kayaks and canoes, playing games and trying to stay in the vessels. The students were certainly tested to their limits, made new friends and all felt very proud of their achievements.

The academy was proud to hold its annual Key Stage 4 and sixth form awards night at Bescot stadium which was hosted by head boy, Matthew Coldicott and head girl, Emily Hall and with special guest Mr Andrew Roberts, a member of the Invictus games team.

Many guests were welcomed back who left last year and celebrated the success of students with their outstanding GCSE and GCE grades.

With so many students achieving top grades it was a wonderful opportunity to celebrate their achievements and the effort that went into them.

Shire Oak Academy

Sixth Form Open Evening

Wednesday 21st January 2015

At Shire Oak Academy Sixth Form we can offer you:

- High academic standards and wide ranging enrichment opportunities
- A choice of 20 A-Level and 9 BTEC national award courses
- Proven record of academic success
- Outstanding modern learning environment
- An excellent educational experience

If you would like to see what Shire Oak Academy Sixth Form could offer you, a programme of activities will run from 6.15pm until 9.00pm. A presentation by the Principal and the Director of Sixth Form Studies will be made at 6.15pm and 6.45pm to outline the curriculum and other opportunities. Visitors should attend one of these presentations and during the evening there will be the opportunity to meet subject specialists and students.

For more information on the Sixth Form please contact Mr N. Critchley, Assistant Principal/Director of Sixth Form Studies.

It's full steam ahead for annual rail gala

Among the staff at Chasewater Railway who will be helping to prepare for the gala is guard Ryan Taylor

VOLUNTEERS at Chasewater Railway will be working to restore some of the engines at the site over the next few weeks. The railway is closed until the end of February but Dan Weeks, a volunteer, said: "We are working on a couple of steam locomotives for the start of the new season."

The Annual Gala is being held on February 28 and March 1. The railway, which features a four-mile track on the old colliery line, is run by a team of around 40 volunteers.

Last year, it welcomed two new arrivals – a Darfield Number 1 locomotive dating back to 1953 and a horse drawn carriage from 1881. The Darfield 1 was purchased using a legacy left to the railway. Renamed Hollybank, it was built by Leeds-based Hunslet Engine Company in 1953. The Midland horse drawn railway carriage was donated to Chasewater in the 1960s.

Funds bid for better buildings at schools

FOUR schools including one in Great Wyrley could be in line for multi-million pound investments for new buildings.

By Rob Golledge

South Staffordshire MP Gavin Williamson has written to Education Secretary Nicky Morgan asking for new cash for Codsall High School, Ounsdale High School in Wombourne, and Great Wyrley High School.

He is also supporting a bid from Staffordshire County Council to the Department for Education to fund work at Edgecliff High School in Kinver. Mr Williamson said the schools had long missed out on money for improved buildings.

He said: "I am keen to ensure that the first-class teaching that goes on in these schools in South Staffordshire are matched with a first-class learning environment.

Available

"Under the previous government there was lots of money put into complete rebuilds of schools in Wolverhampton and Walsall but South Staffordshire missed out.

"The government is making new pots of money available for schools.

"It may not be the case that these are total rebuilds – it could be in the form of some refurbishment or new buildings. But these schools are in need of upgraded facilities which I am pressing home the need for with the Government. Some of them are using what are effectively glorified temporary classrooms."

Ben Adams, Staffordshire County Council's cabinet member for learning and skills, confirmed a bid had gone in for the Kinver school.

He said: "A bid has been made to the Priority Schools Building Programme to fund work at Edgecliff High School, but no decision has been announced yet.

"The council has previously succeeded in winning funding to rebuild primary and secondary schools in the county and is also investing millions of pounds in building new schools to meet growing demand so that children can have a first class education close to home.

"I welcome Gavin Williamson's support on this issue and Staffordshire County Council will continue to provide the best facilities it can for our children's education."

Claire spreads the word on how to stop smoking

A CANNOCK mother of three is helping to promote an NHS stop-smoking service.

Claire Ainsworth, aged 37, of Cemetery Road, was a New Year quitter last January.

"I gave up smoking because I found out my children had started and I couldn't tell them off whilst I was smoking too," she said.

"As a mum of three teenage boys, there's always times when I think I could just do with one [cigarette], but I'm now at a point where I think 'What's the point' I've come this far, just carry on'."

The Time to Quit NHS Stop Smoking Service offers specialist support, making an attempt to give up four times more likely to be successful than going it alone.

Advised

A spokesman for the service said: "There is no time like the present. If you've decided that's it, you just want to stop, then don't delay."

Anyone wishing to take part is advised to follow a definite course of action by calling 0800 043 4304 to make an appointment. An adviser will help to set a 'quit date' to assist with preparations for the task ahead.

"We will talk you through what to expect – many people find the first few days very difficult, but nicotine withdrawal can be managed," the spokesman added. "With our help you will start to feel the benefits of your decision to quit really quickly.

"We will find medication to suit you. This can include the use of nicotine replacement therapies such as gum, and patches or prescription medication like Zyban (bupropion) or Champix (varenicline)." Claire,who previously smoked 15 a day for more than 20 years, is now coming up to the first anniversary of her quit attempt.

"My family are very supportive and now that they've seen that it is possible, they are now starting to quit themselves," she said. "My advice would be just do it; even if you try and fail at least you've tried. I feel better since I've quit."

Claire Ainsworth of Cannock was a Time to Quit service user

Time to Quit manager Ian Saberton said: "Many smokers quit because of health reasons, others quit because they realise the amount of money they are spending. Some people want to set a good example to their children, other people have lost loved ones to smoking-related illnesses.

"Each person's reason for quitting is their own, all are equally valid. At Time to Quit we have the resources and expertise to help you quit and stay smoke-free.Speak to one of our advisers about the best options for you," Mr Saberton added.

"We'll help you make a list of the reasons why you want to stop; involve family or friends who can help you quit for good; help you tackle the temptation and avoid relapses, and get you in the mindset to take it one day at a time and start to consider yourself as a non-smoker.

"Consider the money – smokers spend over £2,555 every year on cigarettes.

"That's a lot of money that could have been spent on something else."

College excels in bookkeeping awards

From left, Fabian Hamilton, president of the IAB, bookkeeping tutor Debbie Ross, business studies and accounts course tutor Donna Abrahams and Janet Jack, chair of the IAB Council

SOUTH Staffordshire College has been recognised for its work in training the bookkeepers of the future with a Gold Centre award from the International Association of Book-keepers (IAB).

At the Top Centre Awards ceremony at the House of Commons, the course tutor for business studies and accounts, Donna Abrahams, and Debbie Ross, bookkeeping tutor, received the award from Malcolm Trotter, chief executive of the IAB.

The college has been an IAB accredited centre for 12 years and was commended for its high performance, based on an overall assessment of pass rates.

Launch of Universal Credit

BENEFIT claimants in Lichfield will be among the first to start receiving the controversial Universal Credit as it starts a nationwide roll-out.

The Government is bringing in the single benefit, which replaces the six main out-of-work benefits and tax credits, gradually, following pilot schemes in the north.

It will start changing over the first third of benefit claimants, initially single jobseekers, between February and April.

Dudley, Halesowen, Stourbridge, Lichfield and jobcentres in Birmingham will be among the first wave.

It is part of the Government's plan to cap welfare and 'make work pay' so people are better off in work than on the dole.

Universal Credit will initially be open to single jobseekers. People will get one monthly payment instead of several fortnightly ones, which the Government says makes the system easier to understand and administer.

However, there are concerns that it could put pressure on council and social landlords who will have to chase people for payments that would previously have gone directly into their coffers, rather than to the bank accounts of the claimants.

VIP service for the bride-to-be

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

A VISIT to this new bridal boutique is a must. Following their move from House of Fraser after many years Adele Louise Bridal have opened up their own bridal lounge in School Street, Wolverhampton.

With a focus on customer service and a huge choice of wedding gowns there is something for everyone.

New for 2015 is VIP Thursdays. This is a bespoke service offering the bride the full package.

Massage

You will receive a champagne cocktail on arrival then the bride will be whisked away to receive a facial, arm massage, bridal make-up and bridal hair do.

She will then be styled in various bridal gowns and hopefully get you saying yes to the dress.

This service is for a bride and a maximum four guests, with the emphasis on fun. Costs apply.

There are also five seamstresses who work with the boutique to ensure your dress is tailored to fit you perfectly.

They are proud to be elite stockists for the fabulous Justin Alexander gowns as well as stocking the amazing top designer Ian Stuart, Suzanne Neville, Enzoani, Mori Lee, Ronald Joyce and Sonsie dresses. The boutique is now open seven days a week and can also offer early morning and late evening appointments upon request.

Helping you to look stunning for your big day

Please note they prefer appointment only so please contact Adele Louise Bridal on 01902 399900 or e-mail info@adelelouisebridal.co.uk to book your appointment. Limited appointments are made during each day to ensure a bride is not rushed. Prom season is also now upon us and the 2015 collection has started to arrive.

Names and details of the school are taken to ensure you don't arrive to your prom in the same dress.

Please note this is strictly appointment only.

Please visit our website at www.adelelouisebridal.co.uk for more information.

Panto brings in £3k for good causes

Front, from left, Julian Fisher of We Love Lichfield, Ian Adams, writer/director/panto dame), Arthur Bostrom as Count Dandini de Tartare, Simon Price of We Love Lichfield, and Adrian Jackson, artistic director, surrounded by Cinderella cast members

IT was the perfect start to the new year for the We Love Lichfield Fund as the city's pantomime, Cinderella, raised more than £3,000 for the local charity.

After packed houses and amazing reviews, the staff and cast of the Lichfield Garrick show helped to raise £3,218 – the single biggest organisational donation in the fund's history.

We Love Lichfield is the Lichfield Garrick's 2015 charity of choice.

The fund distributes grants of up to £1,000 to voluntary groups and good causes across the Lichfield district.

The fund was mentioned on stage in each Cinderella performance to help raise awareness, and staff placed collection boxes throughout the theatre for the public to donate. With match funding, the amount will total almost £5,000. Adrian Jackson, chief executive and artistic director of Lichfield Garrick, said: "A donation of this size for We Love Lichfield is the icing on the cake from Cinderella.

"The show was a great success with superb reviews from the audiences and media alike, and a packed house every performance.

"We played to more than 25,000 people in four and a half weeks, many of whom travelled a distance to see the show, which was great for Lichfield as theatre goers also took advantage of the hotels, restaurants, bars and shops whilst they were in the city. For the pantomime to then raise money for local good causes at the same time makes it extra special for everyone involved. I hope we can continue raising substantial amounts of money for We Love Lichfield in the future."

Simon Price, chief executive of Arthur Price and patron of the We Love Lichfield Fund, said: "I'd like to thank everyone at the Garrick for their hard work and to the audiences for their generosity.

"People's kindness never ceases to amaze me and this substantial donation, the biggest we have ever received, will help benefit good causes across Lichfield District.

"I knew when the Garrick decided to make We Love Lichfield its charity of choice, the fund had gained a strong, substantial and generous partner, but this is amazing and simply the perfect start to 2015."

Wolves memoirs in print

THEY were Wolves legends, racking up trophies and a combined total of just over 600 games for the club.

Winger Dave Wagstaffe made 324 appearances for the club, while defender Frank Munro wore the gold and black 296 times.

Wagstaffe released his autobiography in 2008 – and his final project before he died of cancer in August at the age of 70 was to tell his former teammate's life story. Munro, who died in 2011, aged 63, was living in a nursing home when he approached Wagstaffe for help after reading Waggy's Tales. During his many visits to the home the men would chat about old times and Waggy would write it down on sheets of A4 paper.

He would then hand them on to a former sports journalist friend , and together they put together the story of Frank's life.

Sadly both ex-players died before Franks for the Memories could be published, but it eventually made it into print. Proceeds from the book will go to the Stroke Association, which helped Monro in his later years.

County 'among hardest hit' as pay value dips

STAFFORDSHIRE is among the hardest hit areas after the 'real value' of average earnings in the West Midlands region fell by 12.9 per cent between April 2008 and April last year, a union has claimed.

The GMB says the figure is a 'damning and shocking indictment of how the Tories have run the economy'. For employees resident in Walsall, the drop has been 23.9 per cent, and for those living in Staffordshire the drop was 16.3 per cent, and for Sandwell the drop has been 15.7 per cent. The three areas were the region's worst affected by the recession, the union added.

In April 2008 the mean gross annual earnings for all employees resident in the region, according to the Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE), was £23,035.

The ASHE figure for the mean gross annual earnings for all employees resident in the region for April 2014 was £24,542 – an increase of £1,507 or 6.5 per cent.

Between April 2008 and April 2014, inflation has been 19.5 per cent.

This means the drop in the real value of average earnings in West Midlands between April 2008 and April 2014 has been 12.9 per cent, the GMB says.

Inflation

For the UK as a whole the drop in the real value of average earnings of all employees between April 2008 and April 2014 has been 15.1 per cent.

In Staffordshire, the mean gross annual earnings for all employees rose from £23,943 in 2008 to £24,709 in 2014. After inflation is taken into account, the drop in 'real value' was 16.3 per cent.

Joe Morgan, GMB regional secretary for the West Midlands, said: "These figures are a damning and shocking indictment of how the Tories have run the economy and who has benefited from their time in office."

Sailing race marks 60th anniversary

Participants in South Staffordshire Sailing Club's race

A SAILING club capped its 60th anniversary year in style with its annual festive dinghy race near Penkridge. Twelve duos from South Staffordshire Sailing Club (SSSC) went head to head in the contest at Gailey Lower Lake.

The 400-member club was founded in 1954 to provide small boat sailing for landlocked Midlanders and caters for sailors of all ages and ability levels.

The event has become a tradition, with participants given a handicap related to their abilities to give everyone an equal chance of glory. Club and house committee member Annete Fitzpatrick said: "It's always a lot of fun but the racing gets really competitive at times. Thankfully the forecast gale force winds didn't materialise. It was still windy, making it a big challenge for the members to set their sales for each lap. It was a lovely family event."

Among those braving the windy conditions was 70-year-old member Graham Jones, a veteran sailor who teamed up with his wife. The club's next open day is on April 4.

Village walkers

WALKERS are invited to take part in an eight-mile ramble around the village of Colton on Sunday. Those interested in the walk should meet up with Chase & District Group Ramblers at Hednesford railway station car park for a 9am start.

Clubs' annual tour raises £6k for charity

ALMOST £6,000 was raised during the 10-day Santa tour in and around Rugeley. Organised by Rugeley & District Lions and Rugeley Rotary Club, it was the seventh time the event had been staged by the two organisations.

The proceeds will be shared between the clubs' charity accounts in support of local youth causes. The Lions Club also assisted Santa at the Wolseley Bridge Garden Centre.

Primary schools and young people's organisations took part in the annual Lantern Parade, with Rugeley Lions acting as marshals. As part of the Salvation Army Toy Appeal, Rugeley Lions helped with the collection and delivery of more than 200 toys to their nearest citadel and took part in their carol concert. Meanwhile, the Lions handed Santa Sacks to 22 young carers in the neighbourhood. And the elderly were not forgotten – a cream tea was provided at Barbara house and a visit by Santa to Nethermore House.

Offer of free valuations

AN auctioneering firm in Lichfield is offering free jewellery assessments and valuations on Monday.

Hansons welcomes jewellery consultant Heather McPherson who will meet with clients to have jewellery and silver assessed with a view to auction. They will take place at The Hedgehog Inn, Stafford Road, between 9.30am and12.30am.

Mrs McPherson has a wealth of experience after working as an independent gemmologist and jewellery appraiser since 1979.

Shocking figures prompt campaign

COMMERCIAL FEATURE

Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service preventing • protecting • responding

SHOCKING statistics have revealed that people aged 65 and over account for more than half of all deaths in accidental house fires.

In light of this evidence Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service is urging people to look out for older friends, relatives and neighbours.

It has launched a campaign calling on residents to test the smoke alarms of vulnerable people that they know to ensure that they are working and will activate if a blaze breaks out.

Head of Risk Reduction Jim Bywater said: "It is a sad and shocking situation that the majority of people who lose their lives in accidental house fires are over 65, and with almost a quarter of the UK's population predicted to be aged 65 and over by 2035, we urgently need to address this problem.

"We are urging people to spare a few minutes of their time to visit an older or vulnerable person, whether they are a family member, friend or neighbour, and test their smoke alarms to see if they are working.

"It is not an exaggeration to say this simple act could potentially save someone's life."

Proactive

Older people are at the highest risk of fire in the home.

Those over the age of 80 are 10 times more likely to die in a fire than those aged 30 or under which is why the Service's proactive work within the community is vital.

Residents worried about fire safety in the home of someone they know are being encouraged to contact the Service and book them in for a free Home Fire Risk Check.

During a HFRC, firefighters or trained technicians visit every room in a resident's home and look for potential fire hazards.

They also speak to people about their everyday behaviour in the home and, using this information, try to identify anything that may increase the risk of a fire.

Escape routes are also discussed and planned out so that people know what to do should a fire break out and free smoke alarms can be fitted if necessary. All members of staff carry an identity card.

Although checks to the elderly and vulnerable are prioritised, the service is open to everyone. Mr Bywater added: "There have been a number of recent cases in Staffordshire and Stoke-on-Trent where smoke alarms have saved people's lives.

"With our ageing population, there are an increasing number of people with physical disabilities or illnesses such as dementia which can put them at a greater risk.

"If you know someone like who could benefit from a HFRC, contact us and book one in as soon as possible."

To book a HFRC for yourself, or someone you know call the freephone number on 0800 0241 999 and a mutually convenient time will be set for the visit to take place.

Residents can also sign up to receive a weekly email to remind them to test their smoke detectors.

Simply input your email address into the following webpage – http://www.staffordshirefire.gov.uk/pushthebutton.asp – and you will automatically be sent a message.

Profits of drug plot gang said to be £59m

THE ringleaders of an international cannabis smuggling plot run from a wholesale flower business are believed to have profited by around £59 million.

The gang included two men from the West Midlands – David Thompson of Cannock and Stuart Grant of Bearwood – who have been ordered to hand back money they made.

Baan Klootwijk, aged 49, a Dutch national, and David North, 50, a former soldier, had led the gang based at the premises of Baan Flower Trading in Market Drayton.

Drug dealer Mark Ballinger, 33, from Hampshire, is also said to have shared in the multi-million profits from the enterprise. The three are the subject of a Proceeds of Crime Act investigation and at Birmingham Crown Court the case was adjourned until May for a confiscation hearing.

David Thompson – jailed

Supply

Klootwijk, of Nantwich, who had sourced the drugs through contacts in Holland, was jailed for eight years. North, of Hales, near Market Drayton, was given seven years. Both men had pleaded guilty to conspiring to smuggle drugs into the UK and being involved in the supply of cannabis.

Ballinger, of Farnborough, Hampshire, who also admitted being involved in the conspiracy, was jailed for 40 months. Judge Michael Chambers QC made confiscation orders against four other gang members said together to have benefited by more than £40,000.

Ashleigh Watkin, 38, of Loggerheads, near Market Drayton, described as David North's 'trusted lieutenant', who was jailed for four years, was said have had benefited by £6,200.

His available assets were said to be £520 and he has a month to pay or face 14 days in prison in default.

David Thompson, 42, a driver, of Laburnam Avenue, Cannock, who was jailed for five years, had a £8,750 benefit and assets of £1,380 – monies recovered by police – which he must hand over or face a further 20 days in jail.

Stuart Grant, 42, a driver, of Bearwood, who was jailed for five years, had a benefit of £18,750 and assets of £2,250 which he must pay or face 40 days in prison. Jamie Grant, 26, of Ashley, near Market Drayton, who was jailed for 32 months, was said to have benefited by £10,000 and has to hand over £240 in cash or face seven days in jail.

New buses set to hit road in £34m scheme

SCORES of new buses will be on the road across the West Midlands in the coming weeks.

National Express West Midlands announced last year it will be spending £34 million on new buses, and has now said the first new buses will be in use next month.

The investment will see 171 new British-built buses rolled out this year, including 58 state-of-the-art Platinum vehicles, with a new bus on the road every day between March and August on average.

Peter Coates, managing director of National Express West Midlands, said: "The new buses arriving over the next few months will ensure hundreds of thousands of our customers will have smoother, cleaner and more enjoyable journeys. Our customers regularly tell us newer buses make for a better journey and that is why we have invested a record amount in new vehicles."

The new vehicles will have a 'distinctive fresh livery in a two-tone maroon with complementary cream lines', with the new Platinum services a 'sophisticated slick grey exterior with flashes of brilliant red'.

Platinum buses will be the last to arrive and will go into operation this summer.

Pertemps staff hand over £1,500

Staff at Pertemps People Development Group celebrate making their latest donation to Macmillan Cancer Support

EMPLOYEES at an employment and training specialist donated £1,500 to Macmillan Cancer Support to help celebrate the start of 2015.

Staff from the Cannock offices of Pertemps People Development Group (PPDG) were part of a team that presented a cheque to local fundraising manager Emily Morgan after being inspired by the story of a young man who now volunteers for the charity.

Anthony's cancer journey began at the age of 20 when he was first supported by a Macmillan nurse.

"When I was first diagnosed I was terrified, I'd gone from worrying about what exam grades I might achieve to wondering if I would even see the following year," said Anthony.

"I felt completely alone but Macmillan were there for me from day one, talking me through the process, guiding me though the treatment and still there now ensuring my recovery stays on track."

Anthony is committed to repaying that support by giving talks about his experience and the work of the charity, in particular the impact on him personally.

Experience

"As a survivor of cancer I want to inspire people to fundraise so that others can receive the invaluable help I have. I'd also like to thank everyone who has made this generous donation possible, we need more businesses like yours to get involved," he said.

Heidi Degan, from the Mill Street office, helped drive the support after having personal experience – losing both her parents to cancer.

"Macmillan provides a lifeline to so many families, helping them cope with a very difficult situation," she said.

"After my parents passed away we made a donation in support of the charity.

"As they are funded almost entirely by voluntary contributions, it's something the Cannock team always gets behind to fundraise for."

The company has been supporting Macmillan since 2005 either through events in aid of the annual coffee morning or by organising additional fundraising activities, raising more than £32,000 for the charity during the past decade.

Wildlife centre enjoys a record year

Wolseley Centre warden Vicki Liu is looking forward to 2015 following record-breaking visitor numbers

STAFF at a wildlife trust visitor centre are celebrating after it enjoyed its busiest year on record.

Bumper crowds headed to the Wolseley Centre in 2014, much to the delight of bosses.

A total of 41,500 visitors went through the doors last year – up significantly on the previous record of 28,500.

Staffordshire Wildlife Trust spokesman James Wood said it was down to improved facilities at the site.

A string of improvements have been made this year, including the introduction of a sculpture trail and new bird hide.

He said: "This year has been a record breaking year for the Wolseley Centre and we're delighted that people continue to visit and be inspired by the natural world.

"Visitors have been able to get even closer to the amazing wildlife that lives here thanks to the installation of a range of exciting new features including our family bird hide and sculpture trail, as well as enjoying improved access.

"Nature really matters to all of us, and we'll continue to work hard in 2015 to ensure Staffordshire is a county where wildlife thrives."

Mr Wood said the figure of 41,500 did not include the number of people who visit the site to walk round the grounds, but do not actually enter the visitor centre. The attraction, located on the A51 between Rugeley and Stafford, opened in 2003.

It is the headquarters of the Staffordshire Wildlife Trust.

Attractions at the site include a gift shop and 26 acres of grounds featuring wildlife friendly display gardens, a sensory garden, three lakes and a play trail for youngsters.

The visitor centre, which is free for the public to visit, is home to a range of wildlife, including otters and butterflies.

Meanwhile, the trust's chief executive has stepped down after 15 years.

Guy Corbett-Marshall saw the organisation grow to more than 15,000 members. The trust has begun looking for a replacement.

Shakespeare spoke Brummie

Book Reviews

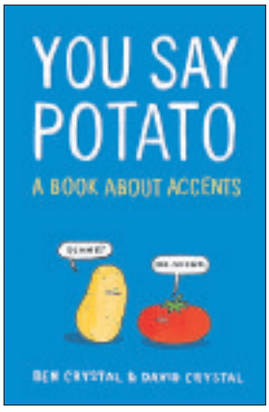
SOUTHERNERS mock the Brummie accent because they actually fear Birmingham as a rival to London. That's one of the theories in You Say Potato: A Book About Accents by father and son Ben and David Crystal.

In a chapter on the city, which thankfully also points out that Brummie and Black Country are different accents, they say that whilst the Birmingham accent often comes bottom of UK polls (alongside the Ulster brogue) it is popular with foreigners who find it friendly and melodic.

The authors put the blame for its dismal reputation at home on Beryl Reid for her slow-witted Brummie character Marlene in popular 1950s radio show Educating Archie. Jasper Carrott didn't help with his 1970s hit Funky Moped ("I'm gonna roide roide roide").

They suggest Brum needs TV shows or personalities to champion the accent, like The Beatles did for Liverpool or even newsreader Huw Edwards for South Wales. But they doubt Peaky Blinders will do the trick with its mishmash of Irish, Northern and Midlands.

Many folks do not even realise that celebrated actress Julie Walters comes from the city. Smethwick to be exact, which being part of Sandwell and Staffordshire before that, is technically of the Black Country. This may be due to her early association with lots of Liverpool drama, or chameleon ability of the actor. But who is left to champion the accent? Frank Skinner and Adrian Chiles are both Black Country men, Liam Payne is a Wulfrunian. So that leaves... Ozzy Osbourne? Apart from the slurred accent of the Black Sabbath singer,



Linguists look at British accents

the best known Brummie voice is actor Timothy Spall, who played a character from the city in TV series Auf Wiedersehen Pet in the 1980s. He is from South London.

It's enough to have Shakespeare spinning in his grave, after all being a north Warwickshire lad, the Bard probably spoke with a kind of Brummie twang. Interestingly, actor Ben Crystal and his linguist father, David, both Shakespeare scholars, say the perceived 'posh' accent is a new invention that came after Shakespeare's times. Back then, when you had to speak French or Latin to impress, folks couldn't tell from your accent whether your Brummie home was a manor house or a hovel. You Say Potato is published in hardback by Macmillan, priced £12.99.

Other recommended recent titles:

Moriarty by Anthony Horowitz (Orion Books, hardback, £19.99). This is a Sherlock Holmes novel with only a cameo from the Great Detective and named after his villainous nemesis ("the Napoleon of Crime"), who has apparently died with Holmes as they plummeted to their doom at the Reichenbach Falls. Foyle's War creator Horowitz, who did such a good job resurrecting Holmes and Watson in The House of Silk, this time gives Scotland Yard officers, so often derided by Holmes, a chance to show they've learned a thing or two from the famous consulting detective. They join an American Pinkerton agent in an investigation into the rise of a ruthless new crime boss. Horowitz does a good job of recreating the shadowy, smoggy world of late Victorian London and puts a twist in the tale. It's out in paperback in June.

Sherlock Holmes: The Man Who Never Lived and Will Never Die, compiled by Alex Werner (Ebury Press, hardback, £25). This handsomely illustrated celebration of Sherlock Holmes, his creator Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and 19th Century London, has been created by academics to coincide with the Sherlock Holmes exhibition at the Museum of London until April 12 this year.

The Story of the Human Body by Daniel Lieberman (Penguin, paperback, £9.99). From an evolutionary point of view, a lot of what we do today, such as sitting down all day in front of a screen, even wearing shoes, can be seen as a recent and abnormal development. Harvard professor Lieberman argues that in the digital age our lives are out of sync with our cave men bodies. Ever sitting down and reading goes against our nature... mind you, I only found that out by sitting down and reading his book. The message seems to be, don't get too comfortable... it could kill you.

Gatherings in public places, such as supermarket car parks, have been a bone of contention

The campaign forbids organised car cruising

Injunction putting the brake on car cruising

CAR cruising will be banned across the Black Country after a ground-breaking High Court injunction was secured by Wolverhampton, Dudley, Sandwell and Walsall councils.

The injunction forbids people from participating in or promoting, organising or publicising a "car cruise" anywhere within the Black Country.

Car cruising – the act of drivers meeting on the public highway on either an organised or impromptu basis to race or show off in their cars – is noisy, dangerous and illegal.

Regular gatherings take place at a number of "hotspots" around the Black Country, where up to 250 vehicles and spectators turn local roads into a race track.

They include the Black Country Route and Birmingham New Road in Wolverhampton, Flood Street in Dudley, Bean Road Industrial Estate, Tipton, Hallens Drive, Wednesbury and Brickyard Road, Walsall, as well as public and retail car parks across the Black Country.

Local councils and the police have received hundreds of complaints about car cruising over the last few years, ranging from vehicles and spectators obstructing highways or residential or business properties, to dangerous driving, excessive noise, littering, verbal abuse and intimidation. There have also been a number of collisions involving vehicles taking part in car cruises.

Wolverhampton, Dudley, Sandwell and Walsall councils, working in partnership with West Midlands Police, secured the injunction from the High Court in Birmingham last month. Anyone suspected of breaching it will be at risk of being in contempt of court, for which an adult can face up to two years in prison and a fine.

Anti-social

Speaking on behalf of the partners, Councillor Elias Mattu, Wolverhampton City Council's cabinet member for leisure and communities, said: "Car cruising has been a bone of contention for residents and businesses for many years.

"The activities are not only wholly anti-social, but also illegal and dangerous, putting the safety of participants and spectators at risk. It's only a matter of time until someone is seriously injured or even killed.

"I am confident this ground-breaking injunction will have a positive impact on the lives of law-abiding people in Wolverhampton, Dudley, Sandwell and Walsall."

Chief Inspector Kerry Blakeman, head of West Midlands Police's Traffic unit, said: "This Black Country-wide injunction will form the backbone of our on-going measures to target people using the road as a racetrack while ensuring the safety of others.

"As well as the obvious dangers of driving at speed on urban roads, car cruising generates a lot of late-night noise nuisance for people living near key routes.

Law abiding drivers can also feel intimidated when they inadvertently find themselves in the middle of a gathering."

Councillor Mattu added: "It should be stressed that we are not seeking to prevent legitimate car enthusiasts from enjoying their hobby.

"What we want to do is put a stop to the menace of car cruising, which is making life a misery for so many people across the Black Country."

● Anyone who witnesses a car cruise on the public highway or public place is asked to call police on 101.

Court action

1) It is forbidden for anyone to participate in "car cruising" (as defined in the schedule below) anywhere within the Claimants' combined geographical area known locally as the Black Country Area.

2) It is also forbidden for anyone to promote, organise, or publicise via e-mail, the internet or any publication or broadcast, any "car cruising" within the defined geographical area.

3) A power of arrest pursuant to section 27 Police and Criminal Justice Act 2006 shall apply to clause 1 above.

4) The order and power of arrest shall continue for 3 years following the commencement of this order or until it is varied or discharged by the court. This order shall come into effect at midnight on 2 February 2015 provided that the Claimants have completed certain steps. It shall, subject to further order, expire at midnight 1 February 2018.

5) Personal service of this injunction is dispensed with pursuant to rule 81.8 of the Civil Procedure Rules.

Schedule

1) "Car Cruising" means two or more motor vehicles (including motorbikes) between the hours of 3pm and 7am being on a highway or in a publicly accessible place within the Black Country Area at which any such vehicle or occupant of a vehicle performs any of the prohibited activities listed in clause 3 below which causes, or is capable of causing, any of the prohibited consequences set out in clause 4 below.

2) "Participating in car cruising" means being the driver of, or being carried in (or on), a motor vehicle (including motorbikes) in circumstances in which paragraph 1 above applies.

3) The prohibited activities referred to in clause 1 above are: speeding; driving in convoy; racing; performing stunts; sounding horns/playing music as to cause a significant public nuisance; using foul or abusive language; using threatening, intimidating behaviour towards another person; and causing obstruction on a public highway, whether moving or stationary.

4) The prohibited consequences referred to in clause 1 above are: excessive noise; danger or risk of injury to road users (including pedestrians); damage or significant risk of damage to property; significant risk of harm; significant public nuisance; and significant annoyance to the public.

Planet's Got Talent (ITV, 6.30pm)

When Paul O'Grady hosted the pilot for what would become Britain's Got Talent, UK TV bosses weren't impressed, so Simon Cowell hotfooted it to the US and sold the Opportunity Knocks-style format with far more ease. Alas, Paul fell out with ITV, so Ant and Dec took over, and before long, Britain's Got Talent became one of Blighty's best loved shows. Then the rest of the world seemed to follow suit with their own versions of the glitzy talent show. Now, narrator Warwick Davis and a team have compiled a best of show. The first of the series features a dog that can do back flips on America's Got Talent; amazing Russian acrobats; an apple-hating Korean woman, and (Warwick's favourite), a man in India who can stuff 200 straws into his mouth at once.

Call the Midwife (BBC1, 8pm)

New series. The nuns and midwives of Nonnatus House return, with new nurse Barbara, who is anxious to prove herself – only to get off on the wrong foot after a late-night drinks party. A family of severely neglected children is discovered, so Trixie strives to restore their health and bring happiness into their lives, leaving Tom filled with admiration for the woman he loves, while Sister Evangelina finally undergoes tests for her abdominal pains. Shelagh finds she is at the surgery almost as much as she is at home, so the Turners come up with a solution which, for 1960, proves somewhat ground-breaking. Jenny Agutter, Pam Ferris, Miranda Hart, Judy Parfitt and Helen George star.

6.30 Countryfile. The team pays a visit to Keswick in the Lake District, where Matt Baker finds out about a charity that is helping wheelchair users to experience the thrill of abseiling through the use of a frame originally designed for mountain rescues. Ellie Harrison climbs Helvellyn mountain to predict the weather with hilltop assessors and finds out about early tourism in the Lakes, and Sanjida O'Connell is on the banks of Coniston Water, where she tries her hand at the Cumbrian craft of oak swill basket-making. Adam Henson travels to Wales to discover the secret of White Park Cattle's origins and Tom Heap investigates how easy it is to get good healthcare in isolated parts of the countryside. Including Weather for the Week Ahead.

7.30 Still Open All Hours. Granville buys too much stock and needs to come up with a way of getting rid of it all, while Eric is having a few marital problems and asks Leroy for a few tips on wooing his wife.

FILM CHOICES

MONDAY
A Simple Plan, BBC1, 12.20am
Two brothers and a friend stumble on a fortune in unmarked small dollar bills in the wreckage of a plane and decide to squirrel it away for themselves. However, the strain of keeping the cache secret takes its toll as guilt, paranoia and greed change their relationship for ever. Sam Raimi's psychological thriller, starring Bill Paxton, Billy Bob Thornton and Gary Cole. (1998)

TUESDAY
The Kite Runner, BBC1, 11.35pm
The friendship between two boys growing up in Afghanistan – wealthy Amir and Hassan, the son of a servant – is shattered, seemingly for ever, when Amir fails to protect Hassan from a brutal attack and later drives him away to conceal his shame. After years living in exile as a writer in America, an adult Amir returns to his home country to atone for his childhood sins by finding his friend's missing son. Drama, starring Khalid Abdalla and Atossa Leoni. (2007)

Knocked Up, Friday, ITV, 10.40pm

WEDNESDAY
The Ring, BBC1, 12am
A journalist investigates several teenage deaths, which are linked to a cursed videotape and the rumour that anyone who watches it will die a week later. Her growing obsession with the tape endangers herself and her family – and to avoid the predicted fate, she has just seven days to find out where the recording came from. Gore Verbinski's remake of the Japanese supernatural horror, starring Naomi Watts and Brian Cox. (2002)

THURSDAY
Out of Reach, Channel 5, 3.15pm
A woman faces having her family torn apart when her husband enters into a business arrangement with two lifestyle coaches, only to end up joining their cult of followers. She struggles to get him away from their influence, but the conflict grows more serious when the sect tries to gain custody of her daughter. Thriller, starring Erin Karpluk and Lochlyn Munro. (2013)

FRIDAY
Knocked Up, ITV, 10.40pm
Ambitious journalist Alison's one-night stand with directionless layabout Ben has unexpected consequences when she discovers she is pregnant. However, the unlikely parents decide to give the relationship a try for their baby's sake. Romantic comedy, starring Seth Rogen and Katherine Heigl. (2007)

PICK OF THE WEEK

Historical series hopes to be a novel success

Despite the best efforts of Jonathan Rhys Meyers in The Tudors and Eric Bana in The Other Boleyn Girl, it seems Henry VIII still has a very unglamorous image.

Or as Damian Lewis puts it: "I think we all have this understanding that he was this womanising, syphilitic, bloated, genocidal Elvis character."

However, in new drama series Wolf Hall, adapted from Hilary Mantel's two Booker-prize-winning novels, the actor is hoping we can see beyond the monarch's weight and diseases. It helps that the story is approached from the perspective of Henry's advisor Thomas Cromwell (acclaimed stage actor Mark Rylance).

It's also allowed Lewis to explore another side to the King. "I think what I've found in Henry is that the grandiose, more paranoid, self indulgent, self pitying, cruel Henry emerged in the period after this series...

"What we're trying to concentrate on a little bit is just to give a more varied portrait of Henry, and that's really how this is written. Henry's not in it very much but when we see him there's great variety in his character and his personality…

"We see him at times frightened by the memory of his mother and I think these are little insights that people won't be used to, you know, and yet there are the similar things there, the vanity is still there, the self importance."

So it's little wonder that the former Homeland star has mixed feelings about being able to empathise with his character. "The more I read about him the more I was happy – and alarmed – to find that I did share character traits with him.

"I suppose everyone else will be the judge of it, but certainly sitting in the clothes, it feels like a canny piece of casting, because I do feel, I do find similarities between myself and him."

He adds: "I think there's no question it helps having had the kind of schooling that I've had [at Eton] to play a King. Just the way, the sort of court structure, hierarchies, the way they're set up, it's something I feel I implicitly understand."

We'll be able to see just how convincing Lewis is as the six-part series begins with the monarch desperate to produce a male heir, which means ending his marriage to Katherine of Aragon (Joanne Whalley).

Unfortunately, Cardinal Wolsey (Jonathan Pryce) isn't having much luck in persuading the Pope to annul the union – and if he falls from favour, that will also have a knock-on effect on his protégé, Thomas Cromwell.

When the Cardinal is dismissed as Lord Chancellor, the noble families of England begin jostling for position, keen to become the King's next advisors, but Cromwell is hopeful that the Wolsey will eventually regain Henry's favour.

That could be tricky though, as the Cardinal has made many enemies at court, including one Anne Boleyn (Claire Foy), who still resents him for ending her betrothal to Henry Percy eight years earlier, and could now be in a position to take revenge as the King's rumoured new mistress…

Mark Rylance stars in Wolf Hall, Wednesday, BBC2, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY
Broadchurch
ITV, 9pm
The little town with a lorry-load of secrets is certainly back with a bang, and true to form, it's once again dominating all conversations, whether at work, down the pub, or about the house. Writer Chris Chibnall has a lot to answer for – his brilliant work seems to be dominating almost all our waking thoughts. He explains: 'In the time we've been off air, we've never stopped working on the show's return. I knew, from the start, that there was another story to tell in the world of Broadchurch: so much so that I'd pitched it to Peter Fincham, Director of Television at ITV, in our very first meeting when he greenlit the first series of the show.' Secrecy has shrouded this second series before now, but in tonight's third episode, Hardy faces a race against time as Ellie discovers startling new evidence. But she's got plenty more on her plate than that, as she comes under pressure from all sides, and life for Mark and Beth is about to change forever.

TUESDAY
The Eichmann Show
BBC2, 9pm
2014 was the year Martin Freeman became officially ubiquitous, starring in the final Hobbit movie, the third series of Sherlock and the acclaimed TV drama Fargo. His 2015 is shaping up to be just as momentous as he takes a leading role in this timely drama, which is showing to mark the 70th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz. Set in Jerusalem in 1961, it follows ground-breaking TV producer Milton Fruchtman (Freeman) as he sets about filming the trial of Adolf Eichmann, one of the architects of the Holocaust. First though, he has to convince the judge that cameras belong in the courtroom, and then train up an inexperienced camera team with the help of director Leo Hurwitz (Anthony LaPaglia) an acclaimed filmmaker who had been blacklisted by McCarthy. However, the pair's persistence pays off when the footage gives victims of the Holocaust the chance to share their horrifying experiences with a global audience.

WEDNESDAY
The National Television Awards – Live!
ITV, 7.30pm
The biggest names on the small screen gather at the O2 in London for the annual ceremony celebrating the best of British TV over the past 12 months, as voted for by viewers. Now in its 20th year, the show promises a few surprises, including a cheeky raid by one of the UK's biggest sitcom stars, while host Dermot O'Leary entertains with a dance routine. Benedict Cumberbatch (Sherlock), Maggie Smith (Downton Abbey), Sarah Lancashire (Happy Valley) and Sheridan Smith (Cilla) battle it out in the Drama Performance category, while star makers Simon Cowell, David Walliams and Cheryl Fernandez-Versini are up against star baker Mary Berry for best TV Judge. Other closely fought contests include Serial Drama Performance, which sees EastEnders' Danny Dyer and Kellie Bright (Mick and Linda Carter) go head to head, with further competition from Verity Rushworth (Emmerdale's Donna) and Nikki Sanderson (Hollyoaks' Maxine Minniver).

Broadchurch, Monday, ITV, 9pm

THURSDAY
Cucumber
Channel 4, 9pm
New series. Sixteen years after the hit Manchester-set series Queer as Folk appeared on the small screen, Russell T Davies returns with this drama exploring the passions and pitfalls of 21st-century gay life - one of three interlinked shows for Channel 4, E4 and online. When a 46-year-old man and his long-suffering boyfriend embark on a disastrous date night, nothing will ever be the same again. At work, Henry is drawn to the enigmatic Freddie, while Lance greets newcomer Daniel, but both friendships are set on a course to explode.

FRIDAY
Match of the Day Live
BBC1, 7.30pm
Cambridge United v Manchester United (Kick-off 7.55pm). Gary Lineker presents coverage of the opening FA Cup fourth-round match, which takes place at Abbey Stadium between the respective League Two and Premier League outfits. The hosts are the lowest-ranked club left in the draw, and will be delighted with this money-spinning tie against the 11-time champions, who have already negotiated one tricky fixture away to lower-league opposition in the shape of Yeovil Town in round three. The U's squad contains former United midfielder Luke Chadwick and this is the first meeting between the sides since a two-legged League Cup encounter in 1991, which saw the Red Devils held to a 1-1 draw on this ground.

- Any properties that are high in demand
- Properties in need of modernisation
- Investment properties
- Keenly priced homes
- Distinctive homes and country cottages
- Parcels of land and building plots

Over 650 lots sold in 2014, we are now taking entries for our February and March auctions, contact us today!

A BIG THANK YOU TO ALL OUR CLIENTS IN 2014

It has been said many times 'you get the clients you deserve', well the Goodchilds team have clearly done something right. Our clients have supported us through the recession and helped us expand to 17 branches whilst our competitors have had to close offices and some even ceased trading.

Well 2014 was no different with continued support and recommendations we reached a record number of managed lettings and completed on more house sales than we ever predicted.

The continued support helped us to maintain our position as the 'go-to' place to find a rental property meaning we increased our number of registered tenants and we are now able to guarantee to find landlords a tenant in 9 days or less or pay them £100 cash.

Many clients took on our 40 day challenge to sell their house allowing us to have the best sold/for sale ratio we have ever had.

Finally a big thank you to all our clients who came forward in their droves to offer testimonials to help Goodchilds win not one but three awards from the Sunday Times beating competition from thousands of agents across the country to be awarded for Best Letting Agents Midlands, Best Estate Agents Midlands, and Best Customer Service for a Large Estate Agent.

HELP US RAISE MONEY FOR BREAKTHROUGH BREAST CANCER

STOP BREAST CANCER FOR GOOD
BREAST CANCER BREAKTHROUGH

@GOODCHILDS_EA

FACEBOOK.COM/GOODCHILDS

THE WEALDSTONE RAIDER WILL BE HELPING TO RAISE MONEY AT THE GOODCHILDS WOLVERHAMPTON OFFICE ON SATURDAY 17TH JANUARY AT 2PM TAKING SELFIES AND VIDEOS.

The internet sensation the Wealdstone Raider, with over 7 million hits on Youtube and reaching number 5 in the UK singles chart is coming to Wolverhampton.

Gordon Hill AKA the Wealdstone Raider has raised over 30 thousand pounds for charity and has now teamed up with award winning estate agents Goodchilds and First 4 Staff to help raise money for Breakthrough Breast Cancer.

The Wealdstone Raider will be at the Goodchilds Wolverhampton office on Saturday 17th January at 2pm. Get there early, he will be doing selfies and videos for people and all we ask is a minimum donation of a pound for Breakthrough Breast Cancer.

Jason Guy Director of First 4 Staff comments:

Following my partner Lucy getting diagnosed with breast cancer in may 2013, we wanted to make a difference. Initially we set a target of raising £1000 but raised £3000 on our first event so we set the target at £50,000 and have raised over £30,000 in the last 18 months. The charity we support is Breakthrough Breast Cancer which in the words of our oncologist is pioneering as they seek to find a cure for the illness which affects 250,000 women in the UK each year.

For further details go to the Goodchilds Twitter or Facebook pages.

Super cool Leon Cupra – grace with lots of pace

By Matt Kimberley

I'm going to start at the end. Having this car parked outside my flat for the last six months has been a privilege.

It reminds me every time I drive it that there are fast, fun cars out there that you don't need to thrash around like you're a hormone-charged teenager. It's a car in which you can chill out just as much as go sports car-baiting – but boy, is it good at the latter.

First let me sum up the performance. When you let it loose, the Cupra 280 runs riot like a furiously territorial bull. It rampages through the DSG gearbox with the front tyres on the limit, slamming each new ratio home with a satisfying whump in the back and a cheeky parp from the twin exhausts.

I reckon it could – and should – be a bit louder in Cupra mode; the angriest of the four driving mode selector options. When Comfort and Individual modes can take care of the quiet, relaxed, everyday thing, there's no reason to hold back with Cupra.

The VAQ triple-clutch differential assist on the front axle is worth its weight in unobtanium, managing the immense torque across the grippy front Bridgestones to devastating effect. Dry weather traction is unbelievable: violent, relentless and intoxicating. Your tyre fitter will thank you for the extra business if you enjoy it too often.

The DSG gearbox is a thorn in the car's side. It's a bit fragile, so torque has to be limited and fed in slowly when the turbo first spools up. It helps to make the automatic Cupra the gentler and more relaxed option compared to the manual, but the latter is more immediate, more explosive, more raw and, believe it or not, smoother – unless you're a complete dunce with the clutch.

Additional

Then there's the lack of real manual control to boost the sense of driving involvement. If you don't shift up in time, it'll do it for you, so if you're just a fraction late with the shift paddle, you end up switching two gears instead of one. It could definitely be implemented better. At the additional price it commands, it's hard to recommend DSG.

But either way, having that swell of torque on tap is a joy even if you only ever use 20 percent of it on your commute. Just knowing it's there is enough to put a smile on your face.

Over my time with it, I did come across some annoying niggles. The CD player being in the glove box is one of them, and the desperately old-tech media screen is another – I'm sure the screen on my first mobile phone had better resolution.

OK, I exaggerate, but it really isn't good enough for a 2014 car costing almost £30,000 before options. Thankfully, the much-improved unit from the Leon X-Perience could see production in the Cupra in a year or two.

I've really grown to like the wheels. They give stance. I wasn't sure about them to begin with, thinking them on the large side for the size of car. At 19 inches, they make one heck of a statement and initially I'd have preferred the 18-inchers available only for the Leon FR, but the more you look at this car, the more the wheels make sense.

It's not a massively overstated car in terms of its styling, but there's no question in my mind that the wheels add attitude.

Until you kerb them, anyway. Protect them if you can.

What I really love about the hottest Leon is that it's not perfect. My affection for it comes squarely from the heart rather than the head. There are flaws to accept and work around, just like with a husband or wife, but it's all part of the hot Seat's unique character. It helps that it's especially beautiful in the three-door SC body style with its sleekly sloping roof line and rear three-quarter curves to die for.

The Leon Cupra 280 is uber-desirable; it's a car you buy because it pulls your heartstrings more than any of its rivals. But rest assured it has the bite to back up its bark.

Fresh style inside and out plus a new model

By Matt Kimberley

Kia's quart-from-a-pint-pot small car, the facelifted Venga, is now on sale in the UK.

There are restyled front and rear ends which give the Venga a sportier appearance and the interiors have been refreshed with added touches of luxury and more equipment. At the top of the range there is a new Venga 4 model.

The new line-up is based on five trim grades and four engines, giving a choice of 11 models. The highly economical 1.4- and 1.6-litre petrol and diesel engines are carried over from the previous Venga and give potential fuel economy of up to 64.2mpg, with CO2 emissions as low as 117g/km. Intelligent Stop & Go (ISG) is standard where it can effect a worthwhile improvement in fuel consumption and emissions, and appears on all but one manual version.

The 89bhp 1.4-litre petrol engine is offered with 1, 1 Air and 2 trim grades, while the 89bhp 1.4-litre diesel is reserved exclusively for Venga 2. The two 1.6-litre engines with manual transmission are available with grades 3 and 4. The 1.6 petrol engine is also offered with a four-speed automatic gearbox in grades 2, 3 and 4.

All versions have a more aggressive, sportier front bumper and main grille, featuring a new take on the 'tiger nose' theme with high-gloss black mesh and a chrome surround. The Kia logo has been relocated to the bodywork. The lower air intake has been redesigned to house daytime running lights (LED with grades 3 and 4) next to the fog lights, which now sit in high-gloss black housings joined by a chrome strip. There is also now a chrome strip linking the rear light units, which are LED on Venga 4. Another premium touch with Venga 4 is the chrome exterior door handles.

For grades 2 and above, there are new-style 16-inch alloy wheels with five triple spokes, while grades 1 and 1 Air continue with 15-inch steel wheels with five-spoke embellishers.

Interior improvements include new black Houndstooth cloth for entry-grade models, while grade 2 continues with black Beat cloth and level 3 again has black Bamboo part-leather and part-cloth upholstery. This is also fitted to the new Venga 4. There is a new Grey Metal Grain paint finish for the centre fascia of Venga 1, 1 Air and 2, while high-gloss black continues to adorn Venga 3 and is replicated in the new Venga 4.

Split rear seats that slide fore and aft by up to 130mm allow the passenger accommodation to be stretched when maximum luggage capacity is not needed. Alternatively, a two-tier boot means that owners who occasionally need more than the standard 440 litres of cargo space can expand the luggage area simply by lowering the floor. The luggage compartment thus becomes 163mm taller, extending total volume to 570 litres. If more space is required, the rear seats have 'Fold & Dive' functionality, which makes them seem to disappear into the floor, creating a completely flat deck in a load area offering a cavernous 1,253 litres of space.

Specified

All models are extremely highly specified, and features previously unattainable with the Venga now appear in certain models. Tyre Pressure Monitoring is fitted to all versions, warning the driver of any potentially serious loss of pressure via a symbol in the instrument cluster. Automatic Light Control is now standard with Venga 3 and 4, and Venga 4 also has 'welcome' and 'follow-me-home' lighting.

Other unique features to Venga 4 are a smart key with engine start/stop button, a heated steering wheel activated by a control switch on the right-hand wheel spoke to complement the heated front seats fitted to Venga 3 and 4, and a panoramic sunroof. Venga 3 and 4 are also equipped with a 7-inch touchscreen satellite navigation system with European mapping and a Traffic Messaging Channel. The full-colour touchscreen also includes a reversing camera. The infotainment system, which is also accessed via the touchscreen, no longer includes a CD player due to the increasing trend among customers of using portable devices to play music. The high-quality six speaker audio system includes RDS radio, full MP3 compatibility and AUX and USB ports.

Standard across the range are driver's seat height adjustment, tilt and telescopic steering wheel adjustment, electric front windows, remote central locking, tinted glass, steering wheel-mounted audio controls, a front passenger armrest, body-coloured handles and door mirrors and electrically adjustable heated door mirrors.

Venga 2 models add alloy wheels, an iPod cable, Bluetooth hands-free mobile phone operation with music streaming, rear electric windows, folding door mirrors and reversing sensors. Venga 3 versions come with climate control, front and rear electric windows, front fog lamps, privacy glass on the rear windows and tailgate and cruise control with a speed limiter.

For safety, all Vengas have six airbags), active front head restraints and two ISOFIX child-seat mounting points.

Every Venga has Kia's unique seven-year/100,000-mile warranty, subject to terms and conditions covering wear-and-tear items. It is transferable to future owners should the car be sold during the period of the warranty.

Cross purposeful

Suzuki has set the SX4 S-Cross up to ride fairly softly and that's a good thing on roads like ours but they've also managed to include a respectable amount of roll stiffness, which means you won't encounter lurching when cornering.

The four-wheel-drive transmission features an electronically controlled clutch pack, operated by a four-position switch on the centre console. Choose 'Auto' and it'll stick to driving the front wheels unless slip is detected, whereupon the rear wheels are pressed into action.

'Sport' diverts up to 20 per cent of torque to the rear wheels to give livelier handling. 'Snow' offers permanent four-wheel drive, with the system choosing how much torque to split front and rear, while 'Lock' splits the torque equally between front and rear.

Prices sit in the £15,000 to £24,000 bracket, with diesel models starting at around £17,000.

Premium

There's a choice of five trim levels – SZ3, SZ4, SZ-T and SZ5. The ALLGRIP 4WD system is only available on the top version for a premium of around £1,800.

You'll need an SZ5-spec model to opt for the CV auto gearbox too. Even the base SZ3 gets 16-inch alloys, air-conditioning, cruise control, front and rear electric windows, heated door mirrors and a USB socket.

There's also a model designed to target the fleet market, the SZT trim featuring 17-inch wheels, silver roof rails, skid plates, satellite navigation, dual-zone air con, DAB radio, plus a keyless entry and start system.

The range-topping SZ5 gets high-intensity-discharge headlamps, leather upholstery and a huge twin-panel sunroof.

Most customers will choose the DDiS diesel engine and rightly so. It's better to drive and gets strong economy. Suzuki quotes a figure of 67.2mpg for the front-wheel drive version, which is on a par with the less powerful Skoda Yeti GreenLine.

Go four wheel drive and you're looking at 64.2mpg. Emissions are well in check with the front-wheel drive diesel recording 110g/km and the four-wheel drive version 114g/km. Choose a petrol-engined model and these numbers range from 125 to 135g/km, while combined cycle fuel consumption varies between 47.8 and 51.3mpg, depending on your choice between two or four wheel drive and manual or CVT auto tranasmission.

Skoda Fabia continues its winning streak

The Skoda Fabia has won the most prestigious motoring award in the UK – What Car? Car of the Year, in association with Warranty Direct.

The Czech model, which also won the Small Car category at this week's ceremony, scooped the main prize exactly 15 years after winning it for the first time in 2000.

What Car?'s Car of the Year Awards are the most highly-prized by manufacturers and the car-buying public alike. Awards are presented in 16 categories in total but only the car that delivers best against the judging panel's stringent criteria wins the overall Car of the Year prize.

The winning Skoda Fabia 1.2 TSI 90 SE model beat stiff competition from 25 other vehicles that made the overall COTY shortlist. The judges praised the Fabia's turbocharged 1.2-litre petrol engine, which combines punchy and flexible performance with impressive efficiency credentials – vitally important for private and company car drivers who will appreciate its potential 58.8mpg and 110g/km emissions, putting it in VED band B (£0 first year, £20 thereafter).

It also beats its main rivals in the small car class – the Ford Fiesta and VW Polo – for both space and practicality, while the technology that comes as standard on the Fabia including a brilliant 6.5-inch touch-screen and a 'Mirrorlink' system that can sync with Android phones to provide sat-nav.

What Car? editor, Jim Holder, said: "The Fabia is a fully deserved winner of our most sought after award – not just because of the fact it is a well-equipped and practical small car, but also because of the big name rivals it has disposed of in the process. "

The New Discovery Sport led a supreme performance by Land Rover in the awards, honoured with the Safety Award for its advanced systems to protect both those on board and pedestrians. The award establishes Discovery Sport's entry into the compact SUV segment with its ground-breaking packaging, advanced engineering and its ingenious 5+2 interior configuration within a compact vehicle footprint.

The enduring strength of the Land Rover range is reflected in the Range Rover Sport SDV6 HSE being named the best large SUV for the second year running and earning a What Car? Price Point "best buy" win in its price bracket.

A strong combination of quality and value secured a further Price Point win for the Range Rover Evoque SD4 Pure Tech in the small SUV class. The Range Rover 3.0 TDV6 Vogue SE cemented its superiority among luxury vehicles priced over £70,000. Jeremy Hicks, Jaguar Land Rover UK managing director, said: "These awards further strengthen the prospects for Discovery Sport ahead of its market introduction while at the same time reinforcing the class-leading qualities presented across the Land Rover range."

New Audi TT could be right up your street

By Matt Kimberley

It's Take 3 for Audi and its hugely popular TT, which promises better efficiency, a more sporty driving experience and some clever new technology.

You don't have to be a car-ista to know about the Audi TT. Since the first generation appeared in 1999, it's been the choice of thefashion-conscious, but it took until the second model in 2005 before the driving experience could match its looks.

Now the third generation has arrived and it promises to move the TT forward in a significant way.

Like the old car, it uses a mix of aluminium and high-strength steels to keep the weight down, yet it's 50kg lighter than the old car.

It also debuts what Audi terms the 'virtual cockpit' – a large display screen where the instruments would normally be. Add to that a new exterior, interior and refreshed engines and there's plenty to take in.

You'd be forgiven for thinking that third generation TT is barely changed, but park one next to the old car and the differences become clearer.

It's broader in the shoulder and more edgy than before, particularly at the front, where there's a mean six-sided grille and vertical LEDs in the headlights to match the R15 Le Mans racer.

The unique curved roof stays, and hotter TTs models get a more distinctive nose. A job well done, then.

Move to the inside and the focus is clearly on those up front. The virtual cockpit means an uncluttered dashboard, and there's plenty of clever thinking here. The air vents house the controls for the air con itself, while the instrument display is crystal clear and informative.

Flavours

Front seat passengers have good space for head and legs and the boot is 13 litres larger than before – but the rear seats remain the domain of children, unless your adult friends are very short in stature.

There's three flavours to choose from; 2.0-litre TFSI in 227bhp and 306bhp forms, plus the 181bhp 2.0-litre TDI Ultra. The lower-output petrol is likely to be the most popular and strikes a good balance between performance and efficiency.

Wring it out and it will hit 62mph in 6.0 seconds flat, half a second quicker if you go for Quattro four-wheel-drive and the S tronic gearbox, yet it can also manage 39.2mpg combined.

There's a pleasing gruffness to the exhaust note when you rev it out yet it is quiet and refined whencruising.

With standard suspension, the TT fractionally prioritises comfort over ultimate handling but for everyday use it's judged very well; it handles neatly, with strong grip and a sense of security while doing a fine job of soaking up bumps.

Clever

All versions get the clever virtual cockpit as standard, the touchpad MMI control system to operate it, keyless go and the Audi Drive Select system.

There's leather and Alcantara sports seats, 18-inch alloy wheels and LED daytime running lights as standard too, but you need to pay extra to get sat-nav and fully automatic climate control.

Who would buy one? If you loved the previous TTs then this one will be right up your street.

Fashion-conscious buyers will be happy to be seen stepping out of it, but now keener drivers can get excited about it too.

It's not the ultimate sports car, but it's sharp enough and sufficiently good fun to keep the majority of drivers very happy.

This car summed up in a single word: Teutonic

If this car was a gadget gadget, it would be an iPhone 6; this season's must-have.

TESTED

Audi TT 2.0-litre TFSI, £29,770Engine:2.0-litre unit producing 227bhp and 273lb/ft of torque

Transmission: Six-speed manual gearbox driving the front wheels

Performance: Top speed 155mph (limited), 0-62mph in 6.0 seconds

Economy: 47.9mpg combined

Emissions: 137g/km of CO2

Lewis takes the jersey in bike race

Lewis Askey who has won a national race

Cycling

A Cannock cyclist has had a dazzling start to the year by adding another national trophy, a jersey, to his collection.

Lewis Askey from Wimblebury competed in the national cycle cross championships in Abergavenny finalising the cycle cross season.

This is where the mountain bikers and road riders compete against each other in the winter season.

The sport is huge in Europe and becoming more popular in the UK and the Olympic committee are considering including it.

Riders had to contend with blustery conditions, tricky corners and repeated dismounting.

Ben Tulett from Hargroves Racing Team took an early lead with Askey and Harry Birchill hot on his tail. Birchill lost his front wheel on one of the slippery corners nearly taking Askey out, however his quick reactions saved him and he made his chase for Tulett catching him very quickly before moving into the lead.

With two laps to go Birchill, the National Mountain bike champion, began to slow, Jensen Young came good at the right time and caught Charlie Craig, while Askey was now out of sight of any chasers and maintained a good gap to take a triumphant win and claim the National jersey in the under-14 category .

As an under twelve rider the Lichfield City Cycling Club member was crowned National Road and Track Omnium champion, however Cycle Cross and Mountain Biking is not offered as a National Championships until riders fall into the U-14 category and Askey has a shot at four titles this year.

Burnt bang in 106 and no reply

Burntwood 106
Aston Old Edwardians 0

BURNTWOOD racked up 16 tries against basement side AOE to extend their winning run to four matches.

The visitors had no answer to the all-round game of Ben Holt's side, particularly in the second half when they scored 63 points.

Skipper Holt ran in five tries whilst Hal Gozukucuk grabbed four tries.

Charlie Liggins made a good break down the right wing and found Zak Shingler in support who sped to the line for a well-taken try. Will Peach converted.

Liggins himself went in for the next try. Peach added the extras.

Brett Taylordummied his way through to the posts for the bonus point try. Peach converted.

Gozukucuk scored his first on the half hour. Holt added his second five minutes later, and then right on the half time whistle Gozukucuk powered his way through for his second. Peach's conversion made it 43-0.

Gozukucuk completed his hat trick two minutes into the second period. Three minutes later Shelley dived over.

Liggins went in for his second try before Rookyard scored twice.

Rugeley get bonus as they go to Market

Market Drayton 16 Rugeley 27

RUGELEY grabbed a four try bonus point victory over Market Drayton.

The side's league form had stalled running up to Christmas and it was important to get the win over a team who have struggled all season despite playing their rugby in the league above last term.

Rugeley started much the stronger and within the first 15 minutes had powered their way to two tries.

Jordan Wood and captain Matthew Williscroft both forced their way over the line.

The wind was against Rugeley but for some reason the Shropshire side did not take advantage of this preferring to run the ball up the pitch. Market Drayton defended well and Rugeley consistently gave away penalties.

As the half wore on Rugeley made a few mistakes which ceded territory to Market Drayton.

One attack was repelled by a robust Rugeley defence on the line with Tommy Wilson's tackling particularly ferocious.

However, a failed clearance allowed another maul to be set up and this time Rugeley were unable to defend their line as Drayton's big No.8 forced his way over in the corner bringing the score to 10-5.

This caused Rugeley to rally with further tries from Wood and Pagett seeing Rugeley secure the four try bonus point in the first half.

The second half started brightly for Rugeley. A long kick up field and pressure on the Drayton backs forced a line out. A punt up field fed Michael Wilkes who seized upon a loose pass and the pacey Drayton centre ran in unopposed under the posts.

Rugeley struggled to re-assert their first half dominance and much credit must go to the Drayton pack who began to get the upper hand in the loose.

A penalty in front of the posts was kicked by Drayton and with 15 minutes to go an unlikely victory was there for Drayton to seize.

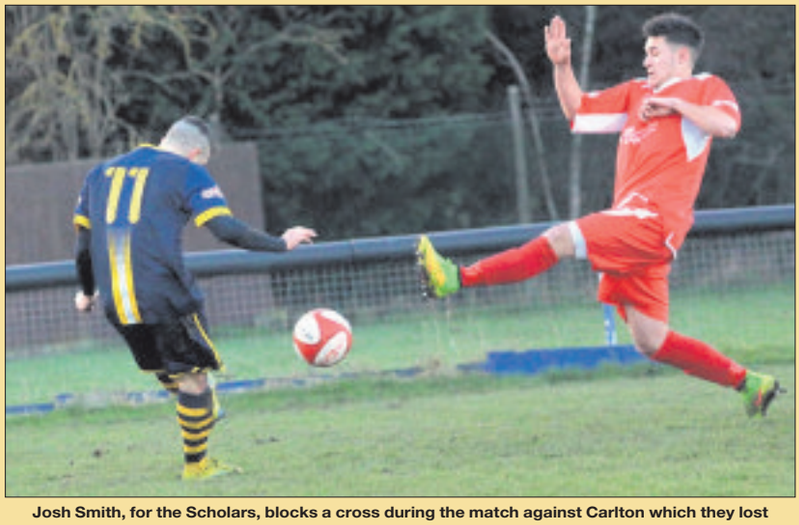
The penalty spurred Rugeley into life.

The structures which they have been working so hard on in training clicked into gear and the remainder of the match was played in the Drayton half.

Several phases of forward play were followed by a well-worked backs move with Luke Pagett drawing his man before feeding Michael Wilkes to score in the corner and secure what in the end was a comfortable winning margin.

The victory sees Rugeley move to fourth in the table with 38 points. Whilst the league leaders are out of sight on 58 points.

Single strike proves a blow to relegation battle



Josh Smith, for the Scholars, blocks a cross during the match against Carlton which they lost

Carlton Town 1 Chasetown 0

CHASETOWN'S hopes of distancing themselves from a relegation dogfight were blown off course as a solitary goal settled their Evo-Stik Division One South visit to Carlton Town in the hosts' favour.

A blustery afternoon at Stoke Lane saw the home side take the lead in the 16th minute, and despite the Scholars' efforts, the goal proved decisive.

Martin Ball played a long pass to Paolo Piliero who delivered a cross to the centre which Alex Troke headed home.

Chasetown had good chances to level. Lee Downes fired over the bar from around the penalty spot, Richard Davies was a whisker wide with a right-foot shot before Martin Kearney acrobatically fingertipped over an effort from Nathan Waite.

The wind dominated proceedings and the game was understandably littered with over-hit passes and wayward crosses from both sides.

Waite forced Kearney to save at the start of the second period but it was not to be Chasetown's day in front of goal as the hosts mopped up the loose balls.

Aaron Hooton forced Chase keeper John Bateman into a save midway through the second half while Troke headed wide .

Skipper wants Cain to stay on

SKIPPER Adam Chambers wants Walsall to extend the loan stay of fellow central midfielder Michael Cain.

The veteran admits to being hugely impressed with the performances of Cain since the 20-year-old joined the Saddlers from Premier League Leicester City in October.

Talks over Cain's future are ongoing between the clubs and Chambers for one is keen to see him remain at the Banks's for the time being.

"It's not my decision but he is a very talented player, which everyone can see from the games he has played," said the Walsall captain.

"He would be a great addition to the team, to the squad."

Own goals kill hopes for Pics

Rushall 0 Warrington 3

FA Cup giant-killers Warrington Town pulled off another upset as they beat Rushall Olympic in the third round of the Doodson Sports Cup.

Rushall were 2-0 down in the first half thanks to two unfortunate own goals.

The first came after 17 minutes. Louis Corrigan swung in a free-kick and James McCarten challenged Aaron Brown and the Pics man was unfortunate to see the ball hit him and find the net.

Brown was robbed in his own box and allowed a cross to come in which was deflected into the net by Jack Duggan. Ten minutes into the second half when Nathan Burke got a third.

Town's victory brings points

Hednesford 2 Lowestoft 0

TWO late goals handed Hednesford Town a vital three points against stubborn Lowestoft Town.

It looked as if visitors were going to frustrate the Pitmen as goalkeeper Ashlee Jones made a succession of great saves.

The game took a long time to get going with neither side really threatening.

There were appeals for a penalty from the home side in the 18th minute when the ball struck Joe Marsden on the arm, but the officials deemed it accidental.

Lowestoft could have gone ahead right on the stroke of half-time when first Ross Jarvis headed straight at Hednesford's Dan Crane before Shaun Bammant fired over the bar from inside the 18-yard box.

The Pitmen continued to be frustrated by Jones as he made another smart save in the 54th minute from Glenn Walker.

With five minutes to go Jamey Osborne was brought down inside the area by Curtis Haynes-Brown.

Lowestoft's Andrew Frisk was shown a second yellow for arguing and Paul Sullivan sent Jones the wrong way.

Deep into stoppage time the Pitmen made certain of all three points when Walker poked home.

Hayes faced their Dunkirk

Dunkirk 3 Heath Hayes 0

HEATH Hayes fell to a disappointing defeat at the hands of relegation threatened Dunkirk.

It was a game made difficult with a strong wind blowing end to end, Hayes had the advantage of the wind in the first half but could find the net despite efforts by Mark Scragg and Damian Jarrett going close. The first half ended goalless

The second half saw Dunkirk use the strong wind to their advantage and took the lead on 70 minutes when sloppy play in the Hayes defence saw Matt Ellis put the home side in front.

Five minutes later, Hayes' defence gave in again when Jan Yeomans hit a terrific shot into the top corner giving Matt Cotterel no chance.

Another goal by Yeomans in the last minute sealed Hayes' fate.

PITMEN SUFFER LATE GOAL BLOW

Barrow 2 Hednesford Town 1

HEDNESFORD Town were dealt a cruel blow as they suffered a late defeat.

Their loss at Barrow came despite having taken the lead with 12 minutes to go. In a gale of a wind both sides battled hard against each other in the opening exchanges.

The Pitmen were dealt a blow though in the 11th minute as Paul McCone was forced off with an injury.

Barrow ought to have taken the lead in the 42nd minute when Andy Cook was played in but he shot into the side netting which kept the Pitmen side in the running.

Eleven minutes into the second period Steve Diggin had half a chance only to be denied by a good block from the Barrow defence.

Impact

With just a few minutes remaining Hednesford introduced new striker George McGree and he made an immediate impact as he slotted home at the second attempt in the 78th minute to break the deadlock.

Despite some resolute defending Hednesford Town's back line were finally beaten in the 86th minute as a cross in was met by Walker who fired home levelling the scores.

Heartbreak for the Pitmen would soon follow as in the 89th minute Sam Sheridan fired home a 30-yard Freekick which went straight into the top corner of the net.

Before the game Hednesford Town boss Rob Smith had questioned the decision of the Vanarama Conference North to schedule a near-350-mile round trip to high flying Barrow on a Tuesday night in January .

The fact Barrow have lost only once at home in 12 games this season, a recent defeat to table topping AFC Fylde being the only blot on a near-perfect record at Holker Street, would have meant that the visit to Cumbria was always going to be a tough test regardless of the factplayers may be missing due to work commitments.

"It is a ludicrous situation having to go there midweek as it's not just the day of the game where people work but the next being affected by getting home in the early hours as well," said Smith.

Barrow: McMillan, Burns, Wilmer-Anderton, Lacey, Cowperthwaite, Grand, Ellison (Ledsham 70), Sheridan, Walker, Cook, Cribley (Gorman 78)

Hednesford Town: Crane, Hurst, Campion, Bailey, McCone (Melbourne 11), Thorley, Osborne, Walker (Sullivan 90), Diggin (McGee 73), Thomas, Batchelor

Tears at Molineux over passing of Sir Jack

Wolves players are united in respect as they observe a minute's silence following the passing of Sir Jack Hayward, before Tuesday night's third round FA Cup replay with Fulham, which Wolves lost on penalties

JEZ MOXEY hailed 'saviour of Wolves' Sir Jack Hayward and admitted: "The club might not be here without him".

Sir Jack, who died on Tuesday aged 91, pumped £70m of his own fortune into the club, overseeing the rebuild of Molineux and the club'sreturn to the top flight in 2003.

And current chief executive Moxey believes his contribution cannot be over-estimated. "The club could have gone out of business at the time he stepped in and saved it," said Moxey before the heart-breaking FA Cup penalty shoot-out defeat to Fulham.

"It certainly would not have been nurtured and loved the way it has to create what we have now. Unfortunately a lot of people measure football by simply league position, what points have you got – but there was much more to it than that. A philanthropic approach to it as an asset for the city, to be saved for the fans, and managed in a way befitting of him as a patriot of the club."

Asked where the club would have been without Sir Jack, Moxey replied: "It may not be here at all is the honest answer, certainly not in its current patronage."

Moxey also paid a warm personal tribute, adding: "He was the most generous-hearted, kind man you could ever want to meet."

Big time plan for Roberts

GREAT Wyrley boxer Mitchell Roberts has had a busy start to the season.

After an injury-hit time last year, where he only boxed twice due to a damaged shoulder, Mitch has boxed five times already before Christmas and on the way captured two titles.

In November, he defeated highly rated Kashim Khan from Walsall Wood to capture the Midlands Light Welterweight Belt, then three weeks later he dropped down to his more natural Lightweight division and took the Central England Lightweight Title Over in Leicester, when his opponent failed to make the 60kg weight limit.

He now has a busy start to the year when he defends this title over in Birmingham on Sunday January 18.

The Wyrley boxer, a motor mechanic, first boxed at 14. Four and a half years later trainer Peter Hickenbottom believes that Roberts could be on the verge of big things.

Roberts goes into the bout as an underdog as he faces Ash Tallenghani.

Anyone wishing to come and support Mitch ring Pete for details on 07957 601 424.
